PROPOSED AGENDA

- Call of the Meeting to Order
- II. Proof of Quorum
- III. Introduction of the Members of the General Assembly
- IV. Approval of the Agenda
- V. Approval of the Minutes of the GA Midyear Meeting of 22 August 1998
- VI. Business Arising from the Minutes of the Previous Meeting

1. PSSC Web Site

Preliminary steps have been taken to develop an internet-based facility for PSSC. E-mail service is in place (our E-mail address is pssc@skyinet.net), and a proposal has been prepared to develop a PSSC web site. This was done by an IT specialist who has just joined the PSSC staff. The full development and installation of the web site, however, is estimated to cost over P100,000 which PSSC needs to program for.

2. PSSC Newsletter

Though cognizant of the interest of the GA to publish a newsletter on a more frequent basis to inform member-associations of each other's activities, the Secretariat has not produced a newsletter due to certain practical constraints. A major problem is that announcements of activities which can be featured in the newsletter are received by PSSC only a few days before these take place, or in some cases, after they have happened. The Secretariat found it more practical to fax announcements to member-associations in the NCR, while this would have been too late for PSSC members in the regions. (The assumption that institutions/organizations plan and calendar their activities/programs way ahead of time may not always be valid.)

The GA had suggested that newsletters which are put out by other groups be a source of information to be included in the proposed PSSC newsletter, but the information from these are again about past events or news that have already taken place.

In view of this, the proposed PSSC newsletter and its purpose and objectives need to be clarified and its implementation reconceptualized.

3. Early Distribution of Minutes

Copies of the Minutes of the August 1998 GA meeting have been circulated prior to this meeting.

4. Special Meeting of the GA

The proposed November Special Meeting of the General Assembly was postponed owing to the heavy workload of the Accounting Section and the Secretariat in preparing the documents for the Special Meeting. Notices for the postponement of the November Meeting was sent to GA members. Items scheduled for discussion in the Special Meeting have been incorporated in today's GA Regular Annual Meeting.

I. Call of Meeting to Order

Dr. Nestor N. Pilar, PSSC Chairperson, called the meeting to order at 9:30 a.m.

II. Proof of Quorum

Dr. Virginia A. Miralao, GA/BOT Secretary, announced that of the 18 GA Members, 15 (consisting of 11 Regular Members, 4 Associate Members Voting-representatives) were present. She also acknowledged the presence of 22 other Associate Members, and 3 BOT members.

III. Approval of the Agenda

The Agenda was approved after the item Introduction of the Members of the General Assembly was included as part of the agenda.

IV. Approval of the Minutes of the 21 February 1998 General Assembly Annual Meeting

The Minutes of 21 February 1998 General Assembly Annual Meeting was approved after the following corrections were made:

- 1. The basis for determining a quorum should be 18 (14 regular members and 4 associate members' voting-representatives), and a quorum should at least be 10 (9 plus 1).
- 2. Inclusion of a GA Resolution that states that the Social Issues Committee will be reactivated.
- 3. Correction on page 8, second to the last paragraph: Prof. Eliseo de Guzman commented on the allocation of PSSC funds...., (not inquired about).

V. Business Arising from the Minutes of the 21 February 1998 General Assembly Annual Meeting

1. Follow-up questions were asked on whether the BOT takes note and acts on the points made at the General Assemblies, such as the questions during the February 1998 General Assembly meeting regarding the proportion of the PSSC budget allocated for programs. It was suggested during the GA then that funds for the tasks and activities that are mandated by the PSSC By-Laws (research and development activities as compared to operating and personnel expenses) be increased. The Treasurer and the BOT Chair both answered that the points that are raised and the recommendations that are made during each General Assembly are indeed noted and discussed by the Board in their subsequent meetings. On the question of reporting the fund allocations for Council programs and activities, this was observed in the Financial Report appearing in the bound PSSC Midyear Report, showing how much was allocated for research and development activities as well as for personnel, operational and other items. The Treasurer added, however, that in preparing said Financial Report, PSSC does not have the perspective of some GA members who want to know how much PSSC gives as direct assistance to member associations.

The appeal made during the February 1998 General Assembly for subsidy for associate members was repeated, and the Chair replied that this matter is under discussion by the BOT.

A third follow-up point made was on the need to improve communication between PSSC and its member-associations. Finding this important the GA passed the following resolution:

98-08-01 RESOLVED that PSSC will explore ways of improving information communication vis a vis its member associations through:

- a. A web page on the internet;
- b. A regular newsletter containing information on social science activities; and
- c. Circulating the Minutes of the GA meeting earlier to members prior to the next meeting.

- 2. A compilation of the proposed amendments to the present PSSC By-Laws was made and endorsed by the Board of Trustees for approval by the GA.
- 3. The PSSC Audited Financial Report was included in the PSSC Midyear Report.
- 4. Re-institution of the Social Issues Committee (SICom)

Dr. Santos asked how the membership of the re-instituted Social Issues Committee was formed. She explained that the previous SICom was composed of presidents of memberassociations or their duly assigned representatives.

Dr. Pilar informed her that Dr. Aurora E. Perez is the Chairperson of the SICom which is composed of some members of the BOT, but interested member-associations may send other representatives to sit in the Committee.

VI. New Business

A. Chairman's Report

Chairperson Nestor N. Pilar introduced the 1998 PSSC officers and seven (7) new Trustees who began their 2-year term in the Council in March. He also presented the Council's five (5) regular working committees – Finance and Personnel Committee; Social Issues Committee; Membership Committee; Nominations Committee; Research Committee; and two (2) ad-hoc committees – Awards Committee and Amendments Committee.

Dr. Pilar then proceeded to present the activities and accomplishments of PSSC for the period February to August 1998, the details of which were in the printed version of PSSC's 1998 Midyear Report. These activities and accomplishments pertained to the regular programs and services of the Council funded from its regular budget (i.e., Research Award Program, Conference Award Program, Publications Program, PSSC Lecture Series and SICom activities, Frank Lynch Library, PSSC Book Center/Central Subscription Service, Social Science Encyclopedia, and Regional and International Networking) and several other special projects and programs with external support (i.e., NSSC IV, UNESCO-MOST Research Programme, NCCA's Project on Traditional Medicine among Resettled Ayta Communities, CHED-PSSC Project on the Development in GE courses in the social sciences and AASSREC activities).

B. Treasurer's Report

Dr. Ana Maria L. Tabunda, PSSC Treasurer reported that despite the Asian economic crisis, the Council posted a total revenue of P4,563,256.35 or 51 percent of annual projection for the first half of 1998. Rental Income (based on actual receipts) amounted to P2,919,091.44 (excluding the imputed cost of the free use of office spaces and Boardroom by PSSC regular members) while Investment Income reached P1,006,525.56. This indicates that the earlier decision to shift PSSC's investments towards fixed income securities was good and timely. The Council's expenditures for the first half of 1998 totaled P4,021,659.68 or 45% of the annual budget.

Dr. Tabunda also presented the 1997 audited financial statements. These audited statements supersede the 1997 unaudited reports presented during the last PSSC Annual Meeting in February 1998. The audited reports show a General Fund balance of P9,382,071.35 or a 10% increase over the 1996 General Fund balance of P8,519,315.99.

Discussion:

Much of the discussion revolved around financial matters. There was strong concern for showing more clearly the allocations for research and development activities and knowing if such allocations adequately comply with the Articles of Incorporation which mandate that 60% of PSSC gross income as defined in Revised Internal Revenue Code be used for program related activities. It was pointed out that in the current presentation Council programs and services receive a mere 10% allocation while the allocation for operating expenses total 81.5%.

The Treasurer clarified that the Report on the PSSC General Fund did not include the Special Projects Fund (which fund research and development activities). If these are included, the allocation for Council programs and services would be about 40%. This proportion could even be higher if it is assumed, as it should be assumed, that certain operating expenses and salaries of the Secretariat redound to supporting development and research projects.

Dr. Paderanga suggested that one way to show budgetary allocations more clearly and taking the concerns expressed by some members of the GA is to classify these according to building and non-building allocation/expenses in the PSSC Financial Report.

Some suggestions were also made from the floor of presenting financial data (e.g., through the use of charts or graphs). The practice of incorporating the ratio of actual expenses to budgeted allocations was also commended.

Having raised these clarifications and suggestions on the presentation of fund allocation and how the funds are being utilized, the GA (through Prof. de Guzman's suggestion)

98-08-02 AGREED to call a Special General Assembly Meeting in November to discuss the fund allocation in the PSSC budget and other financial matters.

Ms. Carmen Benares reacted that a special meeting in November will be burdensome to associate members coming from outside Metro Manila. Dr. Guerrero suggested that the special meeting in November can be represented by the BOT, the presidents of the regular-member organizations and the 4 voting representatives of the associate members. PSSC can finance the transportation of members coming from outside Manila. The Finance Committee will look into the possibility of financing the transportation of members from outside Manila.

There were other points taken up concerning the Chairman's Report. Dr. Salita inquired about the status of the other volumes of the PSSC Encyclopedia. He pointed out that this is a commitment of the PSSC to those who have subscribed to the complete Encyclopedia set. Dr. Pilar assured him that the BOT will be calling other disciplines to submit their respective manuscripts for the Encyclopedia.

Dr. Santos asked if the unused Conference Award grants may be used for some other purpose (e.g., publication). Dr. Pilar replied that unutilized Conference Award grants can be used for other organizational purposes, but the association has to write a letter of request to PSSC to avail of it.

Dr. Guerrero wondered about the small number of RAP grantees for 1998. Dr. Elena Samonte, Vice-Chair and Chair of the Research Committee, informed her that there were more applicants, but quite a number of the submitted research proposals did not pass the guidelines set by PSSC. The Committee in fact called for a second round of RAP applications so as to use up the research budget for the year, but only half of this second round applications passed the review process.

Prof. de Guzman suggested that an open forum should come immediately after each of the Chairman's Report and the Treasurer's Report.

The GA

98-08-03 ACCEPTED the Chairman's Report and the Treasurer's Report.

C. Presentation of the Proposed Amendments to the Present PSSC By-Laws

The proposed amendments to the PSSC By-Laws were presented particularly on:

1. Article III - Membership

Section 4 - Membership Dues

2. Article V - The Board of Trustees

Section 3 - Term of Office

Section 6 - Board Meetings

3. Article X - Nominations and Confirmation

Section 1 - Confirmation

Section 3 - Committee on Elections

Section 4 - Election on Associate Members-representatives to the General Assembly and the Board of Trustees

4. Article XIV - Amendments

Section 4 - Rules on Amendments (new provision)

Discussion:

The main issues raised involved Membership Dues, with questions like What is the rationale behind the change in the provision on membership dues? and Why increase the membership dues when PSSC is very stable and solid?

Since there was inadequate time to discuss the proposed amendments, it was suggested that this item be included in the November meeting, with the presence of the Chairman of the Amendments Committee. The GA

98-08-04 RESOLVED to include the discussion of the proposed amendments to the PSSC By-Laws in the November GA special meeting.

D. Other Matters

Mr. Arnell Bautista announced that the Philippine Society for Public Administration would be holding its Annual Conference on October 15-16, 1998 at PSSCenter Auditorium. The topics would be the pork barrel, legalization of jueteng, and the government procurement system.

VII. Adjournment

The meeting was adjourned at noontime and the members were invited to lunch.

CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

Dr. Nestor N. Pilar

Activities and Accomplishments (March 1998-February 1999)

- I. Organizational Matters
- II. Regular Programs
- III. Special Projects

I. Organizational Matters

I.a. Improvement/Refinement of Financial Reporting System

In response to questions regarding the allocation/utilization of PSSC funds by building and non-building or program purposes, Council Treasurer Dr. Ana Maria L. Tabunda — together with the members of the Finance and Personnel Committee, namely, Drs. Cayetano W. Paderanga Jr., Elena L. Samonte, Col. Jaime L. Canatoy and Ms. Asuncion S. Cueto succeeded in improving the Council's financial reporting system, as implemented in this year's Treasurer's Report.

I.b. Review of PSSC's Charter By-Laws: Amendments Committee

The Amendments Committee composed of Dr. Cayetano W. Paderanga Jr. and Prof. Felipe B. Miranda initiated an external review of PSSC's Charter and By-Laws, with the assistance of a legal expert on organizational and corporate law.

The results of the review pointed to a number of contradictory, confusing or not too relevant provisions that are in need of resolution, clarification and modification.

I.c. Membership Review: Membership Committee

The Membership Committee, chaired by Dr. Ellen H. Palanca and with Mr. Angelo G. Bernardo, Dr. Bernardita R. Churchill and Prof. Malaya C. Ronas as members, met to take stock of the compliance of PSSC member-associations to the Council's membership rules and requirements.

I.c.1. Regular Members

The Committee's review showed that of FSSC's 14 regular member-associations, the timely payment of membership dues has ceased to be a problem, and neither is the regular attendance in GA meetings. However, there remain a few who are unable to regularly send their representatives to both the GA and Annual Midyear Meetings. Several members continue to have difficulties in complying with the requirements of releasing their official journals each year. With the exception of the Linguistic Society of the Philippines (LSP), Philippine Political Science Association (PPSA), Philippine Society for Public Administration (PSPA), Philippine Sociological Society (PSS), Philippine Statistical Association (PSA), and Psychological Association of the Philippines (PAP) which have updated their official journals to 1997 or 1998, all the eight other regular member associations are facing several years of backlog in their publications. The Committee took note of the recent efforts of the Philippine Association of Social Workers Inc. (PASWI) and the Philippine National Historical Society (PNHS) to revitalize and update their journals. PASWI recently released Vol. 1 No. 1 of the Philippine Journal of Social Work to replace its Social Work which had not been published since 1982. Likewise, PNHS released Vol. 36 and 37 of Journal of History for the years 1991 to 1992, while the Society is working to complete updating its publication within the next few months. We are also happy to report to you that as a result of the Membership Committee's recommendation that the discipline representatives to the Board take charge of ensuring the submission of their respective association's annual report to PSSC, this year's GA Annual Meeting Report for the first time contains the 1998 Report of all the Council's 14 regular members.

I.c.2. Associate Members

PSSC's Associate Members totaled 35 as of March 1998. An earlier review of Associate Members in good standing in 1997 however, led to the warning and termination of three Associate members and the acceptance of two voluntary withdrawals from associate members who were finding it difficult to sustain their own organizations or did not find the Council's programs and activities relevant to their own concerns. Meantime, the Membership Committee reviewed and endorsed the application of two new organizations for associate membership, namely, the Ateneo Center for Social Policy and Public Affairs (ACSPPA) and the National Association for Social Work Education Inc., (NASWEI).

In general, associate members still have some problems complying with the timely payment of membership dues, the attendance in Annual meetings and the submission of annual reports. However, it is worth noting that as many as 20 of the Council's associate members have sent in their 1998 Annual Reports for inclusion in this year's PSSC Annual Report. The Membership Committee and the Board of Trustees also wish to commend five associate members for fully complying with the membership requirements in 1997-1998. These are the Center for Legislative Development (CLD), Philippine-China Development Resource Center (PCDRC), Social Research Center-Ateneo de Naga (SRC), Social Weather Stations (SWS) and the UP Statistical Center, now the UP School of Statistics. In addition, we must also commend the Development Academy of the Philippines (DAP) and the National Tax Research Center (NTRC) for faithfully sending representatives to the GA meetings since 1995.

With regard members' use of PSSC room facilities, PSSC regular and associate members are availing of the free or discounted use of such for their own meetings and activities. The imputed costs for these have been increasing since 1996 and reached some P368,000 in 1998.*

I.d. Representation of Regular and Associate Members in the BOT and GA, Election of Representatives of Associate Members in the BOT and GA: Nominations Committee

The Nominations Committee composed of Dr. Elena L. Samonte as Chair and Profs. Edilberta C. Bala, Stella P. Go, Meliton B. Juanico, Drs. Aurora E. Perez and Zelda C. Zablan as members, took time to finetune the procedures for collecting the names of the representatives of regular and associate member organizations who are scheduled to replace their outgoing counterparts in the Board of Trustees and the General Assembly. As early as November last year, the Committee sent the notices to eight regular members to name their replacements to the Board in time for the 20th February 1999 General Assembly. Likewise, the Committee sent out the election ballots for the selection of the Associate Members' representatives to the BOT and four representatives to the GA. In contrast to earlier years which had very poor election returns, 20 out of 35 Associate members mailed back their accomplished ballots prior to the deadline this year.

^{*}Covering the following costs: office space and free use of boardroom by regular members and discounted use of auditorium and other function rooms by regular and associate members

I.e. Executive Director's Performance Assessment: Evaluation Committee

The 1998-1999 BOT constituted an ad-hoc Evaluation Committee to assess the performance of PSSC Executive Director Virginia A. Miralao, whose 3-year term of office ends on 28 February 1999. The Committee found Dr. Miralao to have satisfactorily met the demands of her post. As Executive Director, she steered the substantive research and publication programs towards their accomplishment, notably the PSSC participation in the recently-concluded Fourth National Social Science Congress (NSSC IV). She also managed the Center's operations well, particularly in maintaining the financial robustness of PSSC amidst an adverse economic environment. Thus, the Committee recommended the reappointment of Dr. Miralao for a new term and the Board of Trustees on its 27th January meeting affirmed the recommendation.

II. Regular Programs and Activities

II.a. Research Award Program

The Research Committee made two calls for the submission of Research Award Program (RAP) applications in its efforts to receive quality proposals for prospective funding. The first call in March 1998 reaped 18 applications for thesis and dissertation grants, four of which qualified for P15,000 - 20,000 M.A. thesis grants and one for a P20,000 doctoral dissertation grant. A second call for RAP applications was thus made in September, with another eight applicants, four of which qualified for M.A. grants. The nine new grantees for the year bring the total number of RAP grantees to 448 since the program's inception in 1972.

Taking note of the poor quality of RAP thesis proposals and applications, the Research Committee and the Board have decided to use the unspent balance of the 1998 RAP allocation to conduct a seminar-workshop on thesis proposal writing to address current student deficiencies in this area. The substantive content of the workshop is being prepared by the Research Committee headed by Dr. Elena L. Samonte and with Profs. Edilberta C. Bala, Stella P. Go, Meliton B. Juanico, Drs. Aurora E. Perez and Zelda C. Zablan as members. The 3-day workshop is scheduled on 20-22 May 1999.

II.b. Social Issues Committee

In response to several requests and suggestions that PSSC take on a more active role in the public discussion of current issues, the Board reconvened the Social Issues Committee (SICom) to provide a venue for involving social scientists in social action programs and public policy making. The Board appointed Dr. Aurora E. Perez as SICom Chair and Coordinator for Social Issues Response to allow her greater leeway in handling SICom matters and responses.

II.b.1. The first activity of the SICom was a discussion workshop on the Erap Para sa Mahirap Program which it co-sponsored with the Women in Politics Institute - Philippines on 20-21 June 1998. Held at the PSSCenter, the two-day workshop focused on assessing the types of community-based programs worth including

- in the new administration's flagship program. A suggestion of social scientists which was accepted at the workshop was the development of community data bases to be used as guides in program planning and policy formulation.
- II.b.2. In September 1998, SICom facilitated consultations between social scientists and the Mayor of Bustos, Bulacan to help his administration draw up its local development plans and programs. The UP College of Social Work and Community Development, an associate member of PSSC, met with the Bustos Mayor to develop an anti-drug campaign for the municipality. PSSC also facilitated a meeting between the Mayor and Technology and Enterprise Associates (TEA), a consulting firm engaged in skills-training and enterprise development, to respond to the Mayor's concern for employment generation and the development of small-and-medium-scale businesses in his municipality. The Mayor also met with other social scientists to seek their advice on other matters as land-use planning and health services.
- II.b.3. SICom also helped convene a meeting with the Bangsa Moro Women Foundation on 13 October 1998 at the PSSCenter to explore possibilities of pursuing intergroup dialogues to help foster communication, exchange and understanding among the country's Muslim, Christian, and other ethnocultural communities. SICom offered the PSSC Lecture Series Program as a venue or forum for such dialogues.
- II.b.4. Through SICom, PSSC participated in the Philippine Society for Public Administration's Conference on the Anti-Corruption Thrusts of the Estrada Administration held on October 15-16, 1998. A PSSC Statement of Support for the Erap Para sa Mahirap Program based on the written contribution of member-associations was presented by Dr. Perez at the closing session of the Conference to the representatives of President Joseph Estrada: Presidential Adviser Dr. Raul de Guzman and Senior Deputy Executive Secretary Ramon Cardenas, both of whom had served in the PSSC Board.
- II.b.5. A fifth activity of SICom was the Workshop on Electoral Reforms which PSSC cosponsored with COMELEC, the Filipino Association of Volunteer Efforts (FAVE), the UP College of Public Administration, and the Parish Pastoral Council for Responsible Voting (PPCRV), on 7 November 1998 at the PSSCenter. The workshop which had 400 participants, aimed to begin the process of electoral reforms by ensuring that local voters' lists are cleaned and voters' precinct maps are re-drawn through ocular barangay inspection. COMELEC and the PPCRV pledged to accomplish these and invited interested parties and citizens to assist them in accomplishing these goals.

II.c. PSSC Lecture Series

Not too many lectures were held under PSSC's Lecture Series program during the year owing to the many public fora and events convened by PSSC for both the NSSC IV and SICom. Nonetheless, it should be mentioned that the Philippine Association for Chinese Studies (PACS), a PSSC associate member, and the PCRDC, also an Associate member, co-sponsored a lecture on China's Rural Modernization: Lessons for the Philippines with the UP Asian Center on 9 December 1998. The lecture featured DAR Assistant Secretary

Carlito Anoñuevo and Prof. Aileen Baviera of the UP Asian Center and the PCDRC who spoke on certain features/aspects of Chinese agricultural modernization that may be useful in the country's own agricultural development.

II.d. Conference Award Program

In line with the Celebration of the Philippine Centennial and the coming millennium, several of PSSC's member-associations focused their annual conferences/activities on these related themes. With the exception of PPA, PCS and PHA, all PSSC regular members availed of their P10,000 conference grant for the year. In chronological order, the conference/activities held by member associations with some assistance from the Conference Award Program were as follows:

- Philippine Geographical Society Annual General Assembly (PSSCenter Auditorium, February 26, 1998)
- Linguistic Society of the Philippines Recent Research in Linguistics and Language Teaching: Graduate Papers (De La Salle University, May 23, 1998)
- Psychological Association of the Philippines Psychology in a Changing Afro-Asian World (University of the Philippines, July 23-26, 1998)
- Philippine Society for Public Administration Anti-Corruption Thrusts of the Estrada Administration (STTC Auditorium, ISMED, UP Diliman, October 15-16, 1998)
- Philippine National Historical Society The Unknown and Unsung Heroes of the Revolution: A Centennial Tribute (Leyte Normal University, Tacloban City, October 21-23, 1998)
- Ugnayang Pang-AghamTao (UGAT) Philippine Anthropology in the 21st Century (PSSCenter Seminar Room, October 26-27, 1998)
- Philippine Political Science Association The Teaching of Politics and Governance (PSSCenter Auditorium, October 28-29, 1998)
- Philippine Statistical Association Estadistika sa Ika-100 Taon ng Kasarinlan, Tungo sa Higit na Makabuluhang Pamamahala, Kalusugan at Kapayapaan ng Pamayanan (DOH Auditorium, October 30, 1998)
- Philippine Sociological Society Philippine Sociology in the Third Millennium: Vision and Action for the Future (PSSCenter Auditorium, November 21-22, 1998)
- Philippine Economic Society Is the Philippines Really Different? (Hotel Inter-Continental, November 25, 1998)

II.e. Publications Services

Publication assistance through desktop services, copy editing and coordination of press work was extended by PSSC's Technical Services and Information Section (TSIS) to several regular members who released an issue or issues of their journals during the year. The social science journals published by member associations in 1998 are:

PSSC is encouraging member-associations to make use of the PSSC Social Science Information (SSI), its bi-annual publication, to publish manuscripts on issues/themes of their choice. Already, PNHS has assumed responsibility for putting out SSI's last issue for 1998; while UP Folklorists, Social Weather Stations and DLSU's Social Development Research Center will take charge of SSI's first issue for 1999, and Xavier University's Research Institute for Mindanao Culture for SSI's second issue for 1999.

II.f. Social Science Encyclopedia

The third volume of the PSSC Encyclopedia of Social Sciences is now in press. The volume contains the manuscripts prepared by the Philippine Geographical Society (PGS) and the Philippine Society for Public Administration (PSPA). Upon its publication, six disciplines (the other four are History, Linguistics, Social Work and Statistics) will have been featured in the Encyclopedia Series. We would like to request all other disciplines (Anthropology, Economics, Communication, Population, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology,) to please indicate their plans for their sections in the Encyclopedia to better inform subsequent program budget allocations for the Encyclopedia series.

II.g. PSSC Book Center/Central Subscription Service

The PSSC Book Center/CSS's total gross receipts for 1998 amounted to P588,001 from the sales of PSSC's own publications, the journals of member organizations and other consigned books and materials. Some P182,883 was remitted as payment to member-associations for their journals and P94,918 to other consignees. This left the Book Center/CSS with a net income of P223,840 from its sales of PSSC publications and commission income from journal/book consignments.

The Council's publications on survey research methodologies remain the best sellers with over 100 copies of these sold during the year, followed by the APSSAM Papers (74 copies), the NSSC III Papers (34), and the Philippine Social Science Encyclopedia (25).

II.h. Frank X. Lynch Library

The Library acquired 160 books and monographs and 343 journals and other periodicals during the past year, most of which were donated by friends in the social science community, including Dr. Allen L. Tan of the Psychological Association of the Philippines; Dr. Benedict Tria Kervkliet, noted Asianist and Filipinist now with the Research School of Asia and Pacific Studies, Australian National University; and the Konrad Adenauer Foundation-Manila. A good number of the new acquisitions are also from the institutions which have standing exchange and cooperation MOAs/MOUs with PSSC. Among these are the National Center for Social Sciences and Humanities (NCSSH) of Vietnam, the Academy of Social Sciences in Australia (ASSA), and the Science Council of Japan. One other acquisition of the Library is the 10-volume Kasaysayan: The Story of the Filipino People published by Reader's Digest for the Philippine Centennial.

II.i. Regional and International Networking

- II.i.1. As part of PSSC's formal linkage with the NCSSH of Vietnam, the Chair accepted an invitation to participate in an international conference on AFTA and ASEAN Economies in the Perspective of the Asian Financial Crisis in Hanoi on 26-27 February 1998 and to sign the formal Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between NCSSH and PSSC. Nine months later, the Board sent Trustees Felipe B. Miranda (Political Science) and Meliton B. Juanico (Geography) to participate in another NCSSH conference on Making ASEAN a Community of Nations with Sustainable Development, Cooperation and Equality in Hanoi on 17-18 November.
- II.i.2. In accordance with PSSC's role as Secretariat of the Association of Asian Social Science Research Councils (AASSREC), PSSC hosted AASSREC's Executive Council Meeting in Manila on 20-21 May 1998. The Executive Council met to plan forthcoming activities, including AASSREC's 13th Biennial General Conference scheduled in Seoul in October 1999.
- II.i.3. On October 8, 1998, PSSC hosted a delegation from the Science Council of Japan to discuss the establishment of a Science Council of Asia for the natural and social sciences, and to follow-up PSSC's participation in the 6th Asian Conference on Scientific Cooperation (ACSC). The Board decided to send me to participate in the 6th ACSC Forum on Population and Environment: Asia's Critical Role in Sustainability in keeping with the earlier practice of having PSSC represented in ACSC meetings by the outgoing Chairperson. The 6th ACSC will be held in Tokyo on 15-18 March 1999.

- II.i.4. Early this month, Ms. Lorna P. Makil, Head of the Technical Services and Information Section (TSIS) traveled to Cagayan de Oro on the invitation of Dr. Erlinda Burton of Xavier University's Research Institute for Mindanao Culture to attend a memorial lecture for the late Dr. Michael Costello.
- II.i.5. Having been reappointed as member of the UNESCO National Commission, PSSC Executive Director Virginia A. Miralao went to Paris to attend the Fourth Intergovernmental Council Meeting of UNESCO's MOST (Management of Social Transformation) Programme. PSSC serves as the national liaison body for MOST projects in the Philippines.

III. Special Projects

III.a. The CHED-PSSC Project on the Development of GE Courses in the Social Sciences

Contracted by PSSC with the Technical Committee for the Humanities, Social Sciences and Communication (HUSOCOM) of the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) in July 1997, this project aimed to develop the course outlines, syllabi and materials for the CHED GE courses in Basic Economics, General Psychology, Philippine History, Politics and Governance, and Society and Culture. The course materials and modules for these courses were developed and tested in a series of training programs conducted from October 1997 to April 1998. One hundred forty four (144) social science faculty members coming from 24 universities/colleges in Metro Manila and 47 colleges/institutions in the regions went through the training programs.

Produced by the PPSA, the course modules and materials for the GE course in Politics and Governance are available with PPSA which has since conducted several other training programs on these in colleges/universities across the country. The Economics Department and the Psychology Department of the Ateneo de Manila University on the other hand, are at the stage of printing the course materials for Basic Economics and General Psychology respectively; while the PSS and UGAT are completing the compilation of the reading materials for the GE course on Society and Culture. The course materials for Philippine History consist of the lectures and documentation of the training program conducted by the History Department of Ateneo. Owing to difficulties in fund releases from CHED, there will be a delay in the final publication of the course materials for History. Interested schools and teachers however, may contact the PSSC Secretariat or the project's implementing groups/organizations to avail of the materials for GE social science courses.

III.b. Philippine Migration Research Network

As the National Liaison Committee for the UNESCO-Management of Social Transformation (MOST) Program in the Philippines, PSSC helped organize the Philippine Migration Research Network (PMRN) in 1996, which in turn was elected the first Chair of the region-wide Asia-Pacific Migration Research Network (APMRN) that is doing work on the role of migration and increased ethnocultural diversity in the social transformation of countries in the region.

In late February 1998, four PMRN members attended the 2rd APMRN International Meeting in Hongkong. Sedfrey Santiago presented a paper on Legal and Other Issues in the Protection of Overseas Filipino Workers' Rights in Host Countries: A Possible Role for the Europol Convention in the Asia-Pacific Context. PMRN Chair Benjamin Cariño, Aurora Perez and Marla de Asis also attended as discussants.

In August 1998, PMRN released its second publication* titled Filipino Workers on the Move: Trends, Dilemmas and Policy Options. Edited by Dean Benjamin Cariño of the UP School of Urban and Regional Planning (SURP), a PSSC associate member, this second PMRN publication also has articles written by PSSC Trustee Stella P. Go, Alcestis Abrera-Mangahas of ILO, and Graziano Battistella of the Scalabrini Migration Center.

PMRN held its second General Assembly and Elections on 12 August 1998. The main feature was a discussion of Filipino overseas workers in Spain, and the launching of PMRN publications. PMRN's new set of officers are: PSSC Trustee Aurora Perez as Chair, PSSC Trustee Stella Go as Vice-chair, Jorge Tigno of the UP Department of Political Science as Secretary and Lorna Makil as Treasurer.

PMRN recently received a grant from the UNESCO Participation Programme to set up a migration data bank. PMRN officers expect to meet on this and begin work on the data bank this year.

III.c. Fourth National Social Science Congress

The Council successfully convened the Fourth National Social Science Congress (NSSC IV) and had the co-sponsorship of the prestigious National Academy of Science and Technology (NAST). The Congress culminated in the recognition of the social sciences in the national Scientific Career System by the Department of Science and Technology (DOST) and the Civil Service Commission (CSC). As many of us know, PSSC has been at the forefront of efforts to rectify the gross exclusion of the social sciences in the national Scientific Career System.

After the successful conclusion of the Congress which also served as the 20th Annual Scientific Meeting of the National Academy of Science and Technology at the Westin Philippine Plaza on 8-9 July 1998, conference organizers are now working on the final publication of the NSSC IV papers. These will be released in three volumes under a common title: The Philippine Social Sciences in the Life of a Nation. The three volumes will correspond to the papers presented during NSSC IV's pre-Congresses on The History/ Development of Social Sciences Discipline in the Philippines, The Social Sciences and other Branches of Knowledge, and The Social Sciences and Public Policy and Practice. These are being edited respectively by Virginia A. Miralao, Cynthia B. Bautista and Ledivina V. Cariño. Support for the NSSC IV publications come from the Congress' major donors including The Ford Foundation, the UNESCO National Commission and the Japan Foundation Asia Center.

^{*} The first publication, Philippine Migration Studies: An Annotated Bibliography was prepared and compiled by PSSC Trustee Aurora Perez and Perla Patacsil of UP-College of Public Administration Library.

Close to 700 participants attended NSSC IV's 3 pre-Congresses, consisting mostly of social science professionals and scholars. Of these, over a fourth came from the regions and 12 were foreign participants. The final NSSC IV Congress had just as many participants including several other professionals and scholars in non-social science disciplines.

Aside from the inclusion of the social sciences in the Scientific Career System which previously applied only to scientists in the natural sciences, medical sciences, agricultural sciences and engineering and technology, the NAST also passed two resolutions aimed at extending scholarship programs to graduate students in selected social science fields, and developing an accountability standard for the social sciences. In accordance with the latter resolution, PSSC will undertake a review and update of the Code of Ethics for Social Scientists prepared by the Council in 1988.

III.d. AASSREC-Related Projects

In preparation for AASSREC's XIIIth Biennial General Conference which will be held in Seoul on 18-22 October this year, the Board took note of two papers to be written by PSSC. The first paper is a country paper on the conference theme Reflections on Development and Sustainability; Past and Future which will assess the country's progress towards attaining the development and sustainability goals articulated at the World Earth Summit in Rio in 1992 and the Copenhagen World Summit for Social Development in 1995. The second is a subregional paper on Southeast Asia for a Special Panel Discussion on Confronting 'Asian Values' in the Perspective of Globalization. Some names of possible lead persons to convene roundtables to discuss the two topics have been suggested. The roundtables, which will be conducted soon, will also choose the final paper writers for the AASSREC Conference.

AASSREC's Seoul Conference will additionally feature a special submeeting on Poverty and Environment in the Asia-Pacific Region to be participated in by representatives of countries who are able to prepare papers on the poverty-environment conditions and policies of their countries as well as selected case studies. Trustee Zelda C. Zablan (Demography) has indicated interest in this undertaking and attended an earlier project meeting in Bangkok to finalize the outlines of papers for the Seoul meeting.

Finally, PSSC worked on the Proceedings of the XIIth AASSREC Biennial General Conference which was held in Beijing in 1997, and prepared the camera-ready manuscript of the papers presented at the Conference. The manuscript has been sent to the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in Beijing which will take charge of printing this. Copies of these should be ready in the next few months.

III.e. Project on Traditional Medicine among Resettled Ayta Communities

The National Commission on Culture and the Arts (NCCA) requested PSSC early last year to house an anthropological project on the Aytas, which it had awarded to UGAT President Eufracio C. Abaya. This ethnographic research looks into Ayta traditional healing systems, a largely unexplored aspect of Ayta culture which could inform the formulation of health strategies and programs for Ayta communities.

TREASURER'S REPORT

Dr. Ana L. Tabunda

- I. 1998 Year-End Financial Status
- II. The PSSC 1999 Budget

1998 Year-End Financial Status

The Philippine Social Science Council, Inc. (PSSC) was able to sustain its growth and stability, amidst the country's and the region's economic difficulties.

PSSC's total income of P 10.036 million in 1998 exceeded the original target of P 8,888 million by 13 percent. Rental income from office spaces and function rooms continues to be PSSC's major source of revenue followed by income from investment securities and from other sources. Rental income accounted for P 7.047 million or 70% of gross, while investment income accounted for P 1.812 million or 18%, and other income sources (representing membership fees, Book Center Sales, interest income and management income etc.) for P1.176 million or 12%.

PSSC's expenditures for the year amounted to P 9.016 million, some one percent higher than the projected expenditure for 1998. The excess in expenditures was due mainly to higher operating cost, particularly to increased utility charges (electricity, telephone and water bills).

In terms of the building and non-building allocation of the 1998 budget, building income sources contributed 71% (or P7,133,436.90) of PSSC's total P10,036,469.89 revenue for the year, while non-building or program sources contributed a lower 29% (or P2,903,032.99).

Expenditures for building operations amounted to P4,609,741.48 or some 35% lower than the building income. The excess building income amounting to P2,005,614.74 was used to defray the administrative/support costs for PSSC's regular programs as well as part of their direct costs.

As of 31 December 1998, PSSC satisfactorily posted a positive balance of P 1.020 million, reversing the negative balance incurred in 1997 as a result of the financial crisis.

Of PSSC's P 1.020 million surplus income in 1998, the Board has approved the use of P674,894.00 for periodic but necessary expenditure items not covered in the Council's regular budget and another P334 thousand to increase PSSC's current Endowment Fund. Specifically, the following amounts from the 1998 surplus income have been earmarked for the following purposes:

| 1) | To supplement the inadequate annual budget for major building repairs and maintenance such as roof, plumbing and flooring repairs; | P | 250,000.00 |
|----|--|---|------------|
| 2) | To acquire updated computer-information technology/ equipment needed by the Technical Support and Information Section; | | 170,000.00 |
| 3) | To replenish the Staff Retirement Fund and maintain this at a P300,000.00 level; and | | 254,894.00 |
| 4) | To increase PSSC's Endowment Fund from P7.666 M to P8 M. | | 334,000.00 |

In addition, the Board also approved the transfer of P2 M from the General Fund to the Endowment Fund to raise the latter to P10.0 M. This leaves the General Fund a balance of around P7 M.

The PSSC 1999 Budget

The PSSC Budget for 1999 was approved by the Board of Trustees on 25 November 1998 (Board Resolution No. 98-11-01) upon the recommendation of the Finance and Personnel Committee. The total operating budget for the current year is P9,924,500. The estimated income and expenditures were based on the financial position of the Council in 1998 and on the budgetary requirements for Council programs and activities and the operations of the General Assembly, the Board of Trustees, the Working Committees and the Secretariat. Prevailing economic conditions were also considered in estimating the various budget and expenditure items.

The PSSC's income for 1999 is expected to reach P9.925 million which is slightly lower than the actual P10.036 million income posted in 1998. This is so because interest rates affecting PSSC's investment income are expected to further decline in 1999 as the peso stabilizes and regains some of its value. Because of continuing economic uncertainties, some caution was taken also in projecting the Council's rental income or its major source of revenue. Other than the automatic annual 10% (upward) adjustment in office space rentals, function room rental rates are being maintained at 1998 levels. No major changes or increases are also expected in the income derived by the Council from other residual (income) sources.

The expenditures for 1999 call for an outlay of P9.925 million, equal to the projected income for the year. The allocation for items under Operating Expenses is increased by 13% over that of 1998; whereas the allocation for the meetings/activities of the General Assembly, the Board of Trustees and the Working Committees has been increased by 26%. While the 1999 allocation for Council Program and Services is some P130,000 less than the allocation for these items in 1998, the current year's allocation of P770,000 is being augmented by P245,000 from amounts reserved in 1998 for the Research Award Program and the Encyclopedia Project -bringing the total expenditures for Council Programs and Services in 1999 to P1.015 M (as against a P900,000 allocation in 1998). Finally, expenditures for items under Capital/Equipment Outlay are expected to reach P330,000 from a lower P303,655.00 in 1998. The current P330,000 allocation however, will be augmented by some P420,000 to be taken from the savings/surplus realized in 1998 to cover major but non-regular expenditures for building repairs and computer upgrading.

Disaggregating the PSSC 1999 Budget by its building and non-building (or program) components, a full 73% (or P7,281,500.00) of the projected P9,924,500 income for 1999 will come from building sources (primarily rentals), while non-building sources (primarily investments) contribute a lower 27%.

The estimated P7,281,500 building income for 1999 more than covers the building operating expenses of P5,018,203, leaving an excess of P1,821,469. In turn, this excess has been added to the income derived from non-building/program sources to yield a total P4,464,469 budget for program operations and activities. Of this latter amount, some P1,614,541.91 will be used to cover the administrative/support costs of PSSC's regular programs, while the remaining P2,849,927.09 will cover the direct costs of all Council programs and activities. In brief, the entire surplus from building income is used to cover all the administrative/support costs of programs and part of their direct costs. Based on the foregoing uses of funds, the Council more than complies with the requirement of the Articles of Incorporation mandating it to devote at least 60% of its gross income to program operations and activities. For 1999, PSSC's gross income of P2,849,927.09 representing the excess from building and non-building incomes will be used entirely to cover the direct costs of program services and activities.

2. Philippine Association of Social Workers, Inc.

The year 1998 was very significant in the history of PASWI as it marked its Golden Anniversary and it also coincided with the Centennial Celebration of the Declaration of Philippine Independence. The theme: PASWI: Limampung Taon na Makabuluhang Pakikilahok sa Pagtataguyod ng Kalayaan signifies PASWI's major contributions in the promotion of social justice and peace among the Filipinos for fifty years.

The PASWI goals and objectives for 1998 gave focus in enhancing the professional competence of social work practitioners to effectively respond to t. he emerging needs/critical issues and changes affecting the lives of the marginalized and disadvantaged sectors of society. Despite some organizational problems as a result of the previous year's Annual Convention, the National Board in coordination with the Chapters pushed forward its desired goals and objectives during the year. A strategic planning session was conducted on March 31 and April 1, 1998 for the Annual Program of Activities.

4. Philippine Economic Society

To start off 1998, the PES held its Annual Conference last February 27 at the Shangri La's EDSA Plaza Hotel in Mandaluyong City, on the theme Adjusting to a Changed Economic Environment. The Society was very fortunate to have the President, His Excellency Fidel V. Ramos, grace the activity and deliver the Keynote Speech.

It was in that conference where the members of the Society elected the new officers for the year. Dr. Cayetano Paderanga, PES Vice President for 1997, then became the President for 1998 as he was elected among the ten new Board of Directors. The other members elected to be part of the 1998 Board of Directors were, Mr. Cesar E.A. Virata (RCBC), Dr. Dante Canlas (NEDA), Dr. Noe Ravalo (BAP), Prof. Ruperto Alonzo (UPSE), Mr. Aniceto Sobrepeña (Metrobank Foundation), Mr. Alexander Escucha (China Bank), Mr. Romeo Bernardo (ADB), Sec. Cielito Habito (NEDA), and Prof. Solita Monsod (UPSE). The outgoing President, Dr. Emilio Antonio, as mandated by the PES by-laws, will still sit in the Board as an ex-officio member.

With the leadership of Dr. Paderanga, the Directors held five (5) regular Board Meetings within a period of eight months. Amongst the many things started and planned (some already accomplished) within the said period include: the creation of the PES Newsletter, follow up on the Philippine Economic Journal, creation of PES Committees (Finance, Membership and Conferences), revival of the Friends of PES, participation to the Federation of Asean Economic Associations (FAEA) Annual Conference (held in Malaysia), initial planning for the 1999 FAEA Conference (with PES s host), and the various conferences held within and outside Metro Manila.

Conferences

A. 23rd FAEA Conference on Financial Markets, Corporate Governance

15-17 October 1998 Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia Malaysian Economic Association (MEA)

The Philippine Economic Society as one of the founding members of the Federation of Asean Economic Associations, participated in its 23rd regional conference held in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. Every year the member associations take turns in hosting the annual meeting for the federation to provide open discussion of issues pertinent to the region. In this year's conference, the MEA was able to get the assistance of the Economic Development Institute of the World Bank in staging such a big activity.

The PES sent a delegation of four to participate in the activity: Mr. Romeo Bernardo, Dr. Johnny Noe Ravalo, Mr. Alexander Eschucha and Ms. Margarita Debuque. PES Board Member Dr. Noe Ravalo presented his paper entitled Remedial Management and Prudential Regulations in the Philippine Financial Market: Responding to the Crisis during the conference to share the Philippine experience in the workshop session on Banking and Capital Market Development, which was well received. Mr. Bernardo on the other hand chaired one of the sessions on the Future of the Asian Miracles. In the FAEA Council meeting, the officials of the MEA formally turned over the hosting task to their PES counterpart.

B. The Crisis One-Year After

13 November 1998 Dusit Hotel Nikko, Makati City

Considering that it is national election year, dates of PES activities were pushed back and thus, the first one was only held on the 13th of November. This activity with the theme Crisis One-Year After, was staged with the support of the Friedrich Ebert Stiftung. The Board found it very timely to have a conference on the said theme, and they were proven right when more than a hundred people attended the activity.

Dr. Ramon Clarete talked on Agriculture with his paper on Philippine Agriculture Beyond the Asian Crisis. For the Banking Industry, Dr. Ravalo presented a paper entitled When the Dust has (Hopefully) Settled: The Philippine Banking Industry Over a Year Into the Regional Crisis. To talk on Labor Issues, we invited Dr. Rene Ofreneo of the UP School of Labor and Industrial Relations, who sent Dr. Bach Macaraya, his co-writer of the paper entitled The Crisis: Impact on Philippine Labor. Dr. Dante Canlas delivered a paper on Macroeconomic Impacts and Prospects: One Year of Currency Instability.

C. Sustaining the Mindanao Agenda Under the Estrada Administration 20 November 1998

Apo View Hotel, Davao City

With the support of the Friedrich Ebert Stiftung and other local business groups, the PES was able to organize a regional conference on the Mindanao Agenda. PES brought together two top government economic think-tanks namely, Secretary Benjamin Diokno and Secretary Felipe Medalla to speak in the forum.

The aim to create a good dialogue between the government leaders and the various sectors from Mindanao was met. More than a hundred fifty attendees joined the affair including Congressmen who actively participated in the discussions on the Mindanao budget appropriation issue. The two Secretaries basically discussed what the government will do and could possibly do for Mindanao, and openly listened to the recommendations raised by the concerned LGU officials and businessmen from the region.

D. Is the Philippines Really Different? (A Roundtable Discussion)

25 November 1998

Hotel Intercontinental, Makati City

This activity was organized to provide a venue where people can have a better grasp of where the country really stands in relation to its Asian neighbors. This was done through the initiatives of the PES Finance Committee Chair, Dr. Ravalo and his staff at the BAP, and with the Philippine Social Science Council as co-sponsor. The discussion featured experts in the field of economics from the three important sectors of the economy: the academe was represented by Dr. Dante Canlas (UPSE) and Dr. Tereso Tullao (DLSU); Mr. Romeo Bernardo (BLT) and Mr. Rafael Buenaventura (PCIBank) as representatives from the private sector; and from the Government, Undersecretary Ruperto Alonzo (NEDA).

The panel shared the view that the Philippines really exhibits a difference in relation to geographical peers. Factors raised by the speakers that support the disparities include the country's sound banking sector; lower inflows of foreign capital; the lower debt of the economy as a whole; the continued growth of Philippine exports; and the quasi-reserve role that our FCDU has played.

E. Economic Reforms and the Medium

11 December 1998

Cebu City Marriott Hotel

This was organized by the PES as a second of a series of three regional conferences on the Economic Agenda of the Estrada Administration with the support of the Friedrich Ebert Stiftung. Just like the Mindanao conference, the two Cabinet Secretaries were there to discuss the plans and reforms that the Administration will take up for the coming year.

About 200 people attended the affair and joined in the discussion. Among the concerns of the province that were discussed were export, infrastructure, taxation and agriculture.

B. Philippine Geographical Journal

With regard to its component journal the Philippine Geographical Journal, the PGS will be coming out with the publication before the Society's Annual General Assembly on March 4-5, 1999. The Journal will cover the years 1993-1998 as a way of making it current and encouraging more subscribers. The special issue, which will be distributed to members during the Annual General Assembly, will feature foreign and local authors writing on topics pertaining to the environmental, economic and political dimensions of the geographic discipline.

C. Town Planning Extension Services for Local Government Units

The PGS is currently extending services to the municipality of Bustos, Bulacan in terms of formulating its land use plan and its zoning map. The request for urban and regional planning was coursed through the PSSC.

The Society is also in the process of formulating the comprehensive development plan of San Isidro, Nueva Ecija which intends to highlight its prominent role in the province as a town that was the administrative seat of Northern Luzon during the Spanish Regime.

The above requests for the planning services of the Society appear to show an increasing awareness among LGU decision-makers of the need to plan their communities as a way of accelerating their socio-economic development in a sustainable manner.

D. Contribution to the Poverty Alleviation Thrust of the Estrada Administration

The Society, through its President, participated in a workshop held at PSSC last June 20-21, 1998 for the purpose of generating policies, programs and projects for the Erap Para sa Mahirap thrust of the Estrada Administration. The workshop was nationwide and multi-sectoral in scope. The geographic discipline was assigned to tackle the program on housing, resettlement and town planning. A major umbrella program/project drawn up by the geography group was that on the setting up of a funded agency that will manage the development planning of Philippine towns, cities and provinces.

Some Society members have been contracted to act as consultants to the NEDA in the formulation of the National Land Use Code that will provide the guidelines for rationalizing the use of the land all over the country. The Code aims to ensure the balanced use of the country's land resources under the principles of economic growth and efficiency, food security, social equity and justice.

Society members have been tapped previously by NEDA to provide inputs for the formulation of the National Framework for Spatial and Regional Physical Framework Plans. The exercises were aimed at translating sectoral plans into their spatial dimension, focusing particularly on the spatial distribution of growth and development of the land and physical resources of the country.

6. Philippine Historical Association

The year 1998, the centennial of the declaration of Philippine Independence from Spain, was an absorbing and extremely active one for the Philippine Historical Association (PHA). Like many other organizations across the land, the PHA wholeheartedly embraced the Centennial and embarked on a commemorative year full of activities in order to relive and revalidate the ideals and traditions of those who struggled one hundred years ago in order to give birth to the nation.

A. PHA Elections

The year began with the elections of the new set of PHA Governors and executive officers. The elections were held at St. Mary's College in Quezon City, on 25 January 1998. Elected to head the PHA for 1998 was Dr. Pablo S. Trillana, III, a Professorial Lecturer at Miriam College, with education from San Beda College, University of California (Berkeley), University of Michigan (Ann Arbor), and the Kennedy School of Government of Harvard University.

Others elected to the Board of Governors and subsequently chosen as officers were the following: Dr. Adriel O. Meimban (NEU) - Vice-President and Chairman of the Committee on Programs; Dean Gloria M. Santos (SMC) - Executive Director; Prof. Estrellita T. Muhi (UE) - Treasurer; Prof. Evelyn Songco (UST) - Secretary; Dr. Cesar D. Pobre (NDC) - PHA Bulletin Editor; Prof. Flaviano Mazo (FEU) - Public Relations Officer; Dr. Epitacio Palispis (ASIA/DLSU/SC) - Auditor; Prof. Minerva Gonzales (UST) - Committee on Membership; Ambassador Edmundo Libid (DFA) - PHA Bulletin Co-Editor and Committee on Special Projects; and Dr. Teosfista L. Vivar (UE) - Committees on Membership and Special Projects.

Dr. Rosario Mendoza Cortes, PHA President (19984-1985), was elevated to the PHA Board of Consultants and is the PHA Editorial Consultant. Prof. Oscar Evangelista, immediate past President of the PHA, and Engr. Juanito U. Fernandez, Chairman of the Philippine History Foundation, were also elevated to the 1998 PHA Board of Governors. Prof. Dante Ambrosio (UPD) and Prof. Ricardo T. Jose (UPD) became Co-Chairmen of the Committee on Research.

B. Fabella Centenary

On 18 March 1998, the PHA and the University Archives and Records Depository of the UP Library in Diliman commemorated the centennial of the birth of Gabriel F. Fabella, the founder-president of the PHA. The program featured the launching of the book, Gabriel F. Fabella: Man from Romblon, the acceptance by the UP Archives and Records Depository of the Fabella Sr. Collection, the conferment by the PHA president on the Fabella family of a Plaque of Recognition to honor the PHA founder-president, and the delivery of testimonials by, inter alia, Dr. Rosario M. Cortes and Dr. Gloria M. Santos both of whom came, at one time in their lives, under the tutelage of the late Gabriel F. Fabella Sr.

C. Akademyang Pangkasaysayan

Continuing its ongoing Akademyang Pangkasaysayan program of improving the teaching of history, in both content and methodology, among the elementary and high school teachers of the country, the PHA held another seminar for concerned teachers from 5-7 February 1998 in Tagbilaran, Bohol. In line with the Centennial spirit, the principal focus of the seminar was on the Philippine Revolutionary period, 1896-1901. The seminar was held in cooperation with the Divine Word College and was keynoted by Bohol Governor Rene Ralampagos.

The Akademyang Pangsaysayan was organized by PHA under the aegis of the DECS. Participants of the seminar earned credits to upgrade their teaching credentials. The names of successful candidates are then submitted to the DECS and the Civil Service Commission for their accreditation.

D. PHA Bohol Chapter

As a result of the Akademyang Pangsaysayan seminar mentioned above, the teacher-participants of the seminar organized themselves into the PHA Bohol Chapter. Elected on 7 February 1998 to head the new organization were Prof. Agnes Bustrillo and Prof. Marianito Luspo, both of the Divine Word College in Tagbilaran.

E. Paligsahan sa Kasaysayan

From 1997 to 1998, history quiz contests were conducted among high school students in the sixteen regions of the country, namely Regions 1 and 12, the NCR, Caraga, CAR and the ARMM Regions. Named Paligsahan sa Kasaysayan, the project was jointly undertaken by DECS, the National Centennial Commission (NCC), the National Historical Institute (NHI), and the PHA through its financing arm, the Philippine History Foundation (PHF), which originally proposed the project as a further contribution to the Centennial celebrations.

The regional winners were pitted against each other in the grand finals held on 6 March 1998 in Metro Manila and aired live on PTV 4 at Visayas Avenue, Quezon City. Among the sixteen finalists, Denley Cyder A. Mirabueno from Region V emerged the champion. Mirabueno, a third year high school student of the Bikol University Laboratory High School, Legazpi City, was awarded the grand prize of P100,000.00, a gold medal and a gold trophy. Richard B. Ali, of Region VI, won second prize, earning him P60,000.00, a silver medal and a silver trophy. Ali is a third year high school student of the Iloilo City National High School in Molo, Iloilo. And third placer is Andy Brian Aguiman of the Caraga Region. He received P40,000.00, a bronze medal and a bronze trophy. Aguiman is a second year high school student of the Agusan National High School, Butuan City.

F. PHA in Istanbul, Italy and the Holy Land

A group of PHA officers and members went on a historical and cultural tour of Turkey upon the invitation of Zaman International Newspapers based in Istanbul. They visited the ancient cities of Istanbul, Bursa, Izmir, and Ephesus as well as several famous mosques and shrines like the Blue Mosque, Hagia Sophia, and Topkapi Palace.

From Turkey, the group went to Rome where they visited the Vatican and the ancient ruins and temples of the great Ceasars. In Rome, the group was hosted and assisted by Ambassador Marciano Paynor. Then the group left for a visit to the Holy Land where they paid homage to the memory of the founder of Christianity by visiting, among others, the Church of the Nativity, the Jordan River, the Mount of Olives, the Via Dolorosa, and the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

The group was headed by Prof. Estrellita Muhi, PHA Treasurer, and Prof. Celestina Boncan. The group left on 29 May 1998 and returned to Manila in time to celebrate the centennial of the declaration of Philippine Independence on 12 June.

G. Centennial Goes to the Barrios

From April to December 1998, the PHA conducted the project called Centennial Goes To The Barrios. The Project sought to bring history and the Centennial closer to the people by travelling around the country to generate greater awareness and participation by the people in reliving and revalidating the ideals and traditions that, one hundred years ago, gave birth to the Filipino nation. It also aimed to generate interest and participation among people in the grassroots in the undertaking of research on, and the recording of, relevant oral and local history.

The Project mainstays included pictorial exhibits on the freedom struggles, seminar-workshops on oral and local history, film presentations, local research work, song-dance dramas, and other alternative presentations that made for a lively, informative and effective way of bringing back to life the turn-of-the-century struggles of our forefathers.

The Project was conceptualized and approved by the PHA in 1997 and had initial presentations in September-November 1998 in Hagonoy, Malolos and San Miguel in the province of Bulacan and a conference in Mt. Makiling. The NHI was a joint sponsor.

In 1998, the Project became a full-blown Centennial activity as the PHA, the NHI, the NCC and concerned local historical groups joined together to conduct the Project activities in 15 provinces/cities spread across the country. The NCC financed the Project while the NHI and the PHA became the implementing agencies with assistance from the Philippine Association of Museums, Inc. and various schools and organizations in the Project venues.

The Project visited Batangas, Camarines Sur, Tarlac, Laguna, Novaliches, Palawan, Aklan, Bohol, Bukidnon, Iligan, Samar, Infanta (Quezon), Zamboanga, Ilocos Norte, and Baguio. Thousands of students and people have seen the exhibits and numerous teachers and local government officials attended the seminar-workshops.

H. National Conference on Oral and Local History

The Project, Centennial Goes To The Barrios, culminated in a National Conference on Oral and Local History held from 23-25 November 1998 at the Manila Hotel, Manila. This Conference was jointly held by the NCC, NHI, the PHA, and the Philippine National Historical Society which also conducted other seminar-workshops on oral and local history in various regions of the country last year. Instead of holding its regular Annual Conference as a separate activity, the PHA decided that the Manila Hotel Conference could very well achieve the objectives of its regular Annual Congress.

I. Kasaysay Book and Video

Part of the undertaking and promise of the PHA, as an important contribution to and as a result of the positive feedback on the Centennial Goes To The Barrios, was to publish a pictorial essay on the story of the Filipino people and to produce a video to record and document the year-long activities of the Project. The former was a response to the requests of many teachers to get hold of a reproduction of the exhibit on the Filipino struggles for Independence and Nationhood which they could use as teaching aids in the classroom. The latter was a felt-need to use the gadgets of the technological age to preserve and record, aside from the printed word, the activities of the Project, at the same time infusing the video with the fervor of the freedom struggles and capping it with an appeal for a continuing need to research and preserve not only national, but also local and oral history.

As a result, the coffee-table book entitled Kasaysay: The Story of the Filipino People was launched during the second day of the National Conference at the Manila Hotel and the video entitled Kasaysay: The Centennials Goes To The Barrios was shown before the Conference delegates. The book was published under the co-sponsorship of the PHA, the NHI and the UST Publishing House while the video was co-produced by the PHA, the NHI and the UST Educational Technology Center. Both the book and the video can be used as supplemental instructional and information materials by schools and history-interested groups.

J. PHA Balita

The news bulletin of the PHA called PHA Balita came out last November and was distributed among the delegates and participants of the National Conference on Oral and Local History at the Manila Hotel. Copies have also been sent to PHA members and relevant institutions.

K. PHA Historical Bulletin

Publication of the next issue of the official journal of the PHA, called the PHA Historical Bulletin, also started with the submission in November 1998 by Ambassador Edmundo Libid to the PHA Board of the overall theme and the various subjects to be tackled in the issue. Assignments to various authors have also been made. The Bulletin is expected to come out by the middle of this year, 1999.

L. Philippine Presidents and Philippine Legislatures

Two major books are being written by the PHA under the auspices of the NCC and the Commission on Higher Education (CHED). The NCC is financing the book on the history of Philippine Presidents. The book is entitled Philippine Presidents: 100 Years. It is scheduled for release in March this year. The cover of the book has already been requested by the NCC which intends, if all goes well, to have a blow-up of the same exhibition during the International Conference on the First Republic scheduled for 18-21 January 1999 at the Manila Hotel.

The CHED, on the other hand, has commissioned the PHA to write the history of Philippine legislative bodies. An initial draft has already been submitted to the CHED and the book is expected to be produced sometime in the middle of this year.

M. PHA and Earth Charter

The PHA has been invited to the membership of the core group preparing for the Philippine participation in the Earth Charter Millennium Campaign. The Earth Charter is a sacred document committing humanity to think of themselves as strands in the web of life. Whenever humans destroy the environment, they destroy their own species. The Philippine participation is being spearheaded by former Senators Helena Benitez and Leticia Ramos-Shahani.

N. PHA in various other conferences and seminars

During the year, the PHA had participated in other conferences and seminars by providing speakers and resource persons. Its President, Vice-President and Executive Director, in particular, were frequently invited to talk on history-related topics. The DECS, numerous schools around the country, judicial bodies, socio-civic organizations, professional associations, and local governments had great need of speakers during the Centennial year and the PHA gladly shared the expertise of its members to respond to this need.

8. | Philippine Political Science Association

The Philippine Political Science Association (PPSA) continues in its various endeavors to help professionalize the teaching, research and overall analysis of political science in the country. It has provided academic venues for various political science practitioners (teachers, researchers, students and public officials) so they might be assisted in understanding and managing political developments. A major contribution of the PPSA in this project is the design and piloting of a general education course which could critically influence the ability of Filipino students in confronting and appreciating the challenges posed by politics and governance in a developing society.

It has also updated the publication of the Philippine Political Science Journal in an attempt to give political science professionals a venue for more rigorous academic discourse among themselves, be they Filipino or foreign political scientists.

A. Membership

The association currently has a total of 53 active members. Of this number, 34 are regular members from May 1997 to April 1998. There is also one associate member and 18 life members. New members have affiliated with the association after the National Conference held on October 28 to 29, 1998.

B. Regular meetings of the General Assembly and the Executive Board

The PPSA General Assembly (GA), comprised by all active PPSA members, meets once a year, usually sometime in May, to chart the overall thrusts of the organization for the coming year and to review the performance of the PPSA in the last year in implementing the general plans/programs approved by the GA and implemented by the PPSA Executive Board (EB). The GA also elects the PPSA officers who constitute the EB once every three years or sooner if circumstances warrant an earlier election for any official position within the PPSA.

The EB meets regularly every month to discuss the operational requirements of the various programs, plans and activities of the PPSA for any given year. The EB bears the responsibility for the PPSA's day-to-day operation and is democratically endowed with sufficient authority to discharge its executive/operational functions.

D. 1998 Activities

D.1. PPSA 1998 National Conference, Teaching of Politics and Governance, 28-29 October 1998, PSSCenter Auditorium, Quezon City.

This is the PPSA's major activity for 1998. In the last two years, the PPSA has worked on a draft General Education (GE) course on Politics and Governance which the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) would require of all colleges and universities in the country. This project has been pursued by the PPSA in active collaboration with the Philippine Social Science Council (PSSC) and with CHED financial support. Pilot programs have been tested in the Far Eastern University and the Malabon Community Colleges in Metro Manila and, in March 1998, in the Mindanao State University in General Santos City. The 1998 National Conference was organized to present this PPSA-piloted GE course to social and political science teachers nationwide. The teachers discussed and critically reviewed the proposed course with the primary objective of enhancing the teaching of this course particularly as it is conducted in the various, often sensitive academic and political environments within the country. Seven panels were constituted to evaluate the objectives, organizations, activities and readings of the various modules outlined in the PPSA Workbook on Politics and Governance.

D.2. Other activities of the PPSA in 1998

The PPSA assisted in the National Academy of Science and Technology's (NAST's) efforts to provide the social sciences with appropriate recognition as the country celebrates its historic centennial in 1998. In April 1998, the PPSA provided a panel to discuss Political Science in the Philippines, chaired by Dr. Remigio E. Agpalo, U.P. Professor Emeritus, as part of the NAST's pre-congress activity for the social sciences. In July 1998, in the NAST-supported Fourth National Social Science Congress, PPSA members presented discussion papers in a panel which underscored the historically contrasting, often clashing modes of discourses in the social sciences and the social scientists' ethical responsibilities in a developing Philippine society.

In May 1998, the PPSA also co-sponsored the International Political Science Association's Study Group 17's Workshop on Socialism, Capitalism and Democracy, held at the University of the Philippines' Faculty Center Auditorium.

The association regularly publishes the Philippine Political Science Journal (PPSJ), with the latest issue edited by Dr. Temario Rivera being released in June 1998 and completely bringing the PPSJ up to date in its schedule of publication. The last two issues of the PPSJ have clearly provided young Filipino political scientists with an opportunity to publish in a professional political science journal.

9. | Philippine Society for Public Administration

A. The Philippine Society for Public Administration (PSPA) undertook one major activity in 1998. It held a national conference on the theme, Anti-Corruption Thrusts of the Estrada Administration on 15 to 16 October 1998 at the Science Technology and Training Center (STTC) Auditorium of the Institute for Science and Mathematics Education (ISMED), University of the Philippines in Diliman.

The conference was co-sponsored by the College of Public Administration, University of the Philippines and its Alumni Association; the Association of Schools of Public Administration in the Philippines, and the Philippine Social Science Council.

During the two-day conference, the following topics were discussed:

- Using Information Technology as Deterrent to Graft and Corruption
- Völuntary Service Management
- Pork Barrel Policy
- Legalization of Jueteng

President Joseph Ejercito Estrada was invited to the closing ceremonies but was unable to attend the occasion. Instead, Senior Deputy Executive Secretary Ramon Cardenas and Presidential Adviser Dr. Raul P. de Guzman were sent as envoys. The PSSC presented its statement of support to the Estrada poverty program.

B. A continuing PSPA activity was the publication of the Philippine Journal of Public Administration, Volume XLII, Number 1 to 4.

10. Philippine Sociological Society

The Board intensified its efforts to strengthen the PSS as an organization. Two major activities were undertaken for this purpose: a seminar on the theme Philippine Sociology in the Third Millennium: Vision and Action for the Future held on November 21, 1998 with over 200 younger sociologists and social science practitioners as well as PSS members attending. The seminar program consisted of presentations on: Philippine Sociology: History, Trends and Future by Sylvia H. Guerrero; Contemporary Developments in Sociological Theorizing and Research by Cynthia Rose Bautista; Contemporary Trends in Sociology of Developing Societies by Walden Bello and sharing and reflections on Work, Life and Future of Sociologists by Mary Racelis and testimonies by graduates from the Ateneo de Manila University, De La Salle University, Polytechnic University of the Philippines, University of Santo Tomas and the University of the Philippines.

A brief dialogue with the PSS Board of Directors yielded concrete suggestions on how to strengthen the Society. These were: 1) to strengthen existing student chapters which can formally affiliate with the PSS; and 2) to encourage networking among student organizations in sociology and social science across universities.

The 1998 annual meeting held the next day November 21, 1998 featured as guest speaker former President, now Unionbank Vice-President Mary G. Goolsby, who shared her ideas and experiences on visioning and organizational development. This was preceded by a video-presentation on The Power of Vision.

Nominations to the Board of Directors (to serve in 1999-2000) were made during the meeting and the body decided to hold elections by mail in January 1999.

11. Philippine Statistical Association*

PSA's involvement in multifarious activities in line with Association objectives and agenda resulted in a concerted response to the problems of the statistical community and the PSA as well. PSA's programmed activities took the form of advocacy, research, technical assistance, institution building, and publication. In spite of the crisis that started early this year, PSA managed to maintain a strong financial position.

A. Advocacy

In pursuance of its advocacy function, PSA organized meetings and conferences addressing current statistical problems confronting the nation. Knowledgeable resource persons and concerned practitioners were brought together in these meetings:

- 1. First Quarter Meeting, April 27, 1998, PSSC Seminar Room. Two papers were presented as follows: Bioeconomic Models in Open-Access Fishery, Agriculture and Animal Farming by Dr. Erniel B. Barrios; and A Stochastic Clustering Algorithm for Panel Data with Application to Polling by Dr. Daniel C. Bonzo, both of the UP School of Statistics (formerly Statistical Center).
- 2. Second Quarter Meeting, August 14, 1998, PSSC Auditorium. Two papers were presented, namely: Agriculture and Fisheries Modernization Act by Dr. Eliseo R. Ponce; and The National Information Network for Agriculture and Fisheries by Dir. Romeo S. Recide.
- 3. Annual Conference, October 30, 1998, Sulo Hotel. Three papers dealing with the current poverty problems were presented, namely: On Poverty Monitoring, by Dr. Arturo Y. Pacificador, Jr.; New Breakthrough in Poverty Monitoring, by Administrator Tomas P. Africa; and Improving Poverty Assessment in the Philippines, by Secretary General Romulo A. Virola and Ms. Virginia Ganac.
- 4. National Social Science Congress IV, under the auspices of the Philippine Social Science Council, July 8-9, 1998. PSA organized a panel discussion on Philippine Statistics in the Last Century for Pre-Congress I under the leadership of Secretary-General Carmelita N. Ericta on January 30-31, 1998, PSSC Auditorium. During Pre-Congress 2 on March 20-21, 1998, Dr. Eliezer Albacea participated in a panel discussion on Information Technology and the Social Sciences. These 2 pre-Congress papers contributed to the over-all papers delivered during the NSSC IV Congress Proper on July 8-9, 1998 at the Westin Philippine Plaza.
 - 5. Seventh Philippine Statistics Quiz, in cooperation with the National Statistics Office, which was concluded last December 3, 1998. The national champion came from Region 4, Anna Marseille D. Gabutero; second place came from Region 1, Adonis S. Balanag; third place came from Region 8, Angelyn Viva; fourth place from Region 7, Aldrin Manlosa; and fifth place from the NCR, Joseph Ryan G. Lansangan.

^{*}This report by the PSA President was presented on 11 December 1998 during the PSA Annual Meeting and Christmas party.

B. Research

There were seven projects undertaken jointly with the member-institutions in 1998 (six have been carried-over from last year). Altogether these projects amounted to P 12.6 million. In recognition of the technical contributions of the PSA, the partner institutions donated to PSA a total of P976,508.

Based on the unaudited financial report covering January to November 30, 1998, total revenue reached P1,021,196.06 compared to total expenditures of P760,137.85, thereby realizing a balance of P261,058.21. If we include this amount to the balance of last year, our total general fund balance would be P577,267.47.
- G.3. Meetings The Board of Directors met ten times during the year. Likewise the working committees held meetings as follows:

- Institutional Development Committee, 1 meeting
- By-Laws, Membership and Chapter Committee, 2 meetings

H. Matters to be Considered by the Board of Directors for 1999

- H.1. Budget for 1999. The outgoing Board of Directors has prepared a budget for 1999 for consideration of the incoming Board.
- H.2. Statistical Literacy Promotion. The Ad Hoc Committee on Statistical Literacy had come up with a plan to set up a continuing program to upgrade teachers teaching statistics in the tertiary level. The program which will be done with the cooperation of CHED is proposed to be undertaken in 1999. A survey of needs was recently conducted and the results are still being processed by the Committee.
- H.3. Preparation for the Golden Anniversary of PSA. The PSA will celebrate its golden anniversary in 2002. A fitting celebration should be planned for this occasion. The incoming Board is also informed that it requires a change of its corporate name upon reaching the 50th year. The pending negotiation with the SEC relative to this problem should therefore be followed up.
- H.4. PSA and its Chapters. The newly amended by-laws and the Board Policy Guidelines for Chapters require the reorganization of the existing chapters. This needs attention by the new Board. There shall also be attempts to establish more chapters in areas not yet reached by the Association.
- H.5. PSA and Institutional Members. Improvement of the services of the PSA to its institutional members remains a problem. Special attention should be devoted to strengthening the relationship between the PSA and its institutional members.
- H.6. Scientific Career System for Statisticians. The problem of the place of statistics in the scientific career system also remains unresolved, although initial discussions have been made.

12. Psychological Association of the Philippines

In 1998, the Psychological Association of the Philippines initiated several activities to respond to the call for updating among members. However, it also reviewed its own mission-vision to ensure that the yearly thrusts and activities are in order.

A. Conferences

The major activity conducted by the PAP for 1998 was the joint 4th Conference of the Afro-Asian Psychological Association and the 35th Annual Convention of the Psychological Association of the Philippines. This was held at the University of the Philippines in July 1998. The Conference theme was Psychology in a Changing Afro-Asian World. There were about 350 delegates from all over the Philippines and 20 from the other parts of the world.

Another major activity was the Regional Convention which was held at Silliman University in Dumaguete City in February 1998. The theme was Psychology in a Changing World. It was attended by 200 students and 40 professionals mostly from the Visayas and Mindanao.

B. Workshops

- B.1. A one-day workshop was sponsored by the Clinical Committee. Dr. Imelda V.G. Villar conducted the workshop on Solution-Focused Therapy in January 1998. It was participated in by about 60 counselors and psychologists from the NCR and Luzon.
- B.2. A half-day workshop was offered in October at the St. Scholastica's College. This was conducted by visiting Professor Janice Fairbein of Australia as arranged with former PAP President Natividad Dayan. The focus was Working with Families of Substance Abusers. This was attended by about 60 counselors and psychologists from the NCR.

C. Publications

- C.1. The PAP issued the 1997 Special Edition of the Philippine Journal of Psychology (PJP). This contained the special addresses of previously awarded Outstanding Psychologists. A 1998 PJP issue focusing on Psychology in a Changing World was also published. Two PAP newsletters were likewise distributed.
- C.2. A book edited by former PAP officers Dr. Natividad Dayan, Dr. Allan Bernardo, and Dr. Allen Tan was published and launched during the PAP-Afro-Asian Convention. This is entitled Understanding Behavior: Bridging Cultures.

E. Awards

Two PAP Committee heads were given awards for outstanding work: Dr. Emma Concepcion Liwag, Board Member of the PAP and head of the Developmental Psychology Committee, was honored as one of the Outstanding Young Scientists by the NAST during the closing program of the NSSC IV-NAST Annual Scientific Meeting on 8 July 1998, while Dr. Cristina J. Montiel was the 1998 recipient of the Outstanding Service Award from the Division of Peace Psychology of the American Psychological Association.

F. Strategic Planning

A strategic planning meeting was conducted during the PAP Vision-Mission. This was participated in by the Board Members of 1998-1999 and was held last October 1998. Excellence in teaching, research, and practice, and recognition as a scientifically-oriented discipline were agreed upon as the core of the mission-vision.

13. Ugnayang Pang-Aghamtao, Inc. (Anthropological Association of the Philippines)

The Ugnayang Pang-Aghamtao, Inc. (UGAT), organized in early 1977, is also known as the Anthropological Association of the Philippines, the national organization of anthropologists in the country. The membership consists of anthropology graduates, students, researchers, teachers, and other individuals and institutions involved in the discipline.

- Since its founding, UGAT has been conducting annual national conferences not only to discuss professional concerns but also to make anthropology more involved in national issues affecting Philippine society and culture. The 20th annual conference with the theme Philippine Anthropology in the 21th Century was held on October 26-27, 1998 at the PSSC Auditorium. This year's conference reviewed the state of the art and assessed the prospects of the practice of Philippine anthropology in the coming century.
- In preparation for the 20th Annual Conference, pre-conference roundtable discussions were held. The first, on June 19, focused on the theme itself. The second, on August 15, was a presentation of Mary Louis Bolunia's paper on the archaeology of Donsol, Sorsogon. The last, which was held on August 21, discussed Ruben Martinez' paper on Pagmamay-ari, Karapatan sa Lupa, at Katutubong Batas ng mga Iraya Mangyan, a forum co-hosted with the Organization for Training, Research and Development Foundation, Inc. (OTRADEV).
- The organization was active in Indigenous Peoples (IP)-related fora. On February 11, 1998, representatives from UGAT attended the Consultative Workshop on IP Rights hosted by the Commission on Human Rights (CHR). On April 1998, it took part in the Consultation on the Indigenous Peoples Rights Act (IPRA) Implementing Rules and Regulations (IRR) called for by the National Commission on Indigenous Peoples (NCIP). On June 1998, it participated in the Policy Conference on Community-Based EIA: Partnership with the IPs that was part of the Community-Based Environmental Impact Assessment Project for IPs under the auspices of the International Labor Organization (ILO). A month later, UGAT attended the Roundtable Discussion on Community Mapping in the Philippines sponsored by the Legal Rights and Natural Resources Center-Kasama sa Kilusan. Last October, UGAT took part in the IPO and NGO Consultation on World Bank Policy on IPs which was organized by Upland NGO Assistance Committee (UNAC). The organization was also represented in the Filipinas Heritage Library Workshop on Developing a CD-ROM on the IPs of the Philippines.
- The major concern of UGAT is the research cum development project Anthropological Assistance in Ancestral Domain Management. Supported by the Ford Foundation, the Project undertook the training of selected IP leaders and community members in archaeological and ethnographic documentation. This served as major inputs in the Ancestral Domain Management Plan (ADMP). Three IP groups were involved: the Agta Cimarron/Tabangnon of Donsol Sorsogon; the Bukidnon of Hinoba-an, Negros Occidental; and the Higaonon of Misamis Oriental.

- The organization likewise undertook salvage archaeology of the Operator's Village of the San Roque Multipurpose Project (SRMP) in San Manuel, Pangasinan and archaeological assessment of additional areas of Project Site.
- This December, UGAT is starting its Ethnographic Study of the Material Culture of the Negritos of the Bicol Peninsula with funding from the National Commission on Culture and the Arts (NCCA).
- As a regular member of PSSC, UGAT actively participated in its General Assemblies held last 21 February and 22 August. In the February General Assembly, Mr. Angelo Bernardo, a Board Member, was elected as member of the PSSC's Board of Trustees (BOT).
- Together with the Philippine Sociological Society (PSS), UGAT facilitated the trainor's training for the teaching of the course on culture and society at the collegiate level.

2. Center for Institutional Research and Development, Philippine Christian University

A. Institutional studies

A.1. Final glimpse of PCU: An Exit Interview of Graduates SY 1997-1998.

Abstract: This is a collaborative study with the Guidance and Counselling Office and 880 graduating students as respondents. The interview is focused on five areas namely: Attainment of the Objectives, Quality of the Curriculum, Faculty Performance, Adequacy/Quality of University Services and Physical Plants and Facilities. The findings show that the strength of the university lies on its thrust in the development of Christian character; its library facilities and services; and its approachable teachers. The weaknesses were found in the inadequacy of drainage and flood control system; poor maintenance of cleanliness and sanitation, inadequacy of classrooms; and classroom atmosphere not conducive to learning.

A.2. Employability of PCU graduates and their performance in board examinations (1988-1998).

Abstract: The study looked into the employability of graduates and their performance in the Government Professional Board Examinations. Results show that the BSN has consistently rated higher than the national passing average. In a number of examinations PCU posted 100% marks. The BSND, BSSW and Education graduates fared well in the examination with PCU averaging higher than the national passing average in most years. On the other hand our Accountancy examinees showed very poor performance when considered against the national passing average.

The graduates were asked to rate PCU based on fifteen factors projected to enhance board performance and employability. The top five items which rated high in terms of enhancing employability and board performance were: qualified and better trained teachers, adequate library facilities, on-the-job training program, regular evaluation of teachers and adequate classroom facilities and resources.

A.3. Holding power of PCU.

Abstract: The study covered a period of eight years. The results provided a gauge on the holding power of our school and the survival rate of students. The salient findings of the study show that the average survival rate of PCU students is 27% which means that about a quarter of the freshmen enrollees stayed on until they graduated. Three fourths of the original enrollees either dropped out, transferred to other schools or failed to graduate with their batch. Among the different programs of the university, BSN had the highest survival rating of 54% and followed by FSM with 41% and BSCS with 40%. Bachelor of Arts had the lowest survival rating of 20%. The following is the general summary of the holding power of the university.

|--------------------|---|--------------------|----------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1990-92 | . 3404 | 1993-94 | . 824 | 24.21 |
| 1991-92 | 2944 | 1994-95 | 830 | 28.19 |
| 1992-93 | 2639 | 1995-96 | 800 | 30.31 |
| 1993-94 | 2987 | 1996-97 | 888 | 29.73 |
| 1994-95 | 3358 | 1997-98 | 844 | 25.13 |

A.4. Profile study of the students in the PCU Graduate School of Business and Mangement.

Absract: Knowing the profile of our students is essential in making sure that what we offer is what the clients want or need. 253 students enrolled during the trimester were included in the study. The study showed that a typical student in the CGSBM has the following profile:

Age 34 years

Sex Female

Civil status Single

Employer Government

Job Position Supervisory Level

Residence Metro Manila

Entry Degree Business Administration

A.5. Evaluation of the new 3-hour class scheduling scheme: the teachers viewpoint.

Abstract: Varied reactions were noted when the scheme was implemented. To have an objective assessment of the new scheduling, an impact survey was conducted with the 74 full-time teachers from all the colleges of PCU as respondents. The teachers' enthusiasm level for the scheme were measured with a 10-point semantic differential scale. A mean value of 4.25 was obtained which is on the low side of the enthusiam scale. The impact study on the new scheme showed that:

- a. There is no change in teacher's performance.
- b. There is a slight decrease in students' performance.

- c. There is a slight increase in the time teachers spend in school thus increasing their food expenses a bit.
- d. Teachers have more time to prepare for their lessons.

B. Socio-political study

B.1. Political choices of the different sectors of PCU for the May 1998 elections.

Abstract: Results of the survey with 224 respondents from the different sectors of the university showed that the PCU community batted strongly for Raul Roco with Alfredo Lim coming in second for the Presidential race. For the Vice-Presidential race, Gloria Arroyo and Oscar Orbos completed closely, while the other candidates lagged far behind. With regard to the senatorial bets: Loren Legarda, Rene Cayetano, Robert Barbers and Rodolfo Biazon made it to the top four.

 Goodwill Industries of the Philippines

C. Promotion of academic programs

In the pursuit of excellence and responsive education the College was able to undertake and achieve the following:

C.1. For its Distance Éducation Program, it has completed the Social Work Modules for all Master in Social Work Courses. It has also graduated the first batch of Diploma and Masters students in August. In addition, it has started to develop and train tutors in the learning centers of Baguio and Davao.

The CSWCD library was praised by the students and other clientele for its up-to-date collection, a relatively spacious library with a congenial ambiance and for the efficient services provided by its staff. This commendation was published in the September 28, 1998 issue of the Philippine Collegian, where the CSWCD library, as well as the ILS Library, garnered the highest rating of 1.0.
- C.3. The Market Study on the proposed doctoral program was completed and the results show that there is a demand among professionals in the field of social development. However, it was suggested that aside from this demand determination, there is a need to elicit a more definitive commitment from the social development agencies to support the program.
- C.4. The Departments of Community Development, Social Work, and the Women and Development Program continued to develop teaching materials and to document their field experiences in both rural and urban placements of students.

D. Researches undertaken

The faculty members undertook a total of 26 researches. These researches probed the various issues and concerns on coastal resource management, women, family violence, child labor, globalization and women workers, organizational change, sexually abused children, core shelter, social policy, social work practice, motherhood, environment and sustainable development.

E. Papers presented

The faculty members presented 23 papers. These papers discussed vital topics like family violence, feminism, volunteerism, unionism, globalization, women and work, social work supervision, persons with disabilities, social work education, academe and social work, community organizing, and social work practice.

F. Publications

Ten articles and creative works of faculty members were published in the publications of a) UCWS-UNFPA, b) REDO-CSWCD; c) Open University; and d) UP-CPA.

G. Linkages

Nine local and international linkages were established to promote the teaching, research, and extension functions of the College. Through the initiative of the Dean, the faculty, and staff, connections were established with UN-ESCAP, University of South Australia and the La Trobe University of Australia, George Warren Brown School of Social Work of the United States of America, and the Taegu University of South Korea. Local linkages were also fostered with REPROCEN, UP AKKAP, DENR, AWARE, and the Recycling Movement of the Philippines.

H. Extension work

A number of faculty members were actively involved in helping social development institutions pursue their mandates. The faculty members were engaged as consultants, trainers, coordinators, evaluators, board members, resource persons, organizers, facilitators, paper presenters, speakers, participants in training, case writers, and reviewers.

I. Contribution to the University

- I.1. Addressing the issue of Domestic Violence in the Diliman Campus. The College initiated the formation of an inter-unit Committee towards this end. This endeavor has strong support from the Chancellor's Office.
- I.2. Ecological Waste Management. The College actively supported the mandate of the university to support environment friendly activities. The College is presently implementing a waste management program that can serve as a model in the Diliman units.

J. Contribution outside the University

The College is one of the institutions involved in pioneering the project Mainstreaming Family/Domestic Violence in the Medical and Nursing Curricula. The objective of the project is to develop patient-friendly and gender-sensitive health practitioners.

B. Training Assistance and Workshops

The IPC conducted technical training workshops through its Women Studies and Natural Resource Management Programs. On July 27-29 the Women Studies Program in particular organized a Database Fair/Workshop for groups implementing project funded by the Canadian International Development Agency to enable them to develop, organize, use, and interpret computer data on women in development/gender equity (WID/GE) for programming, management decision-making, and other uses.

In collaboration with the Economics Department and the Environmental Science Program, the IPC Natural Resource Management Program conducted a Workshop on Environmental Economics and Management for NGO Leaders from September 28 to October 2, 1998. The objectives of the workshop were to introduce the participants to basic concepts in ecology and environmental economics, the theory and practice of Environmental Impact Assessments (EIAs), the tools of cost-benefit analysis and its relationship to EIA, economic policy instruments, frameworks for evaluating environmental impacts, different valuation approaches, and extended cost-benefit analysis.

The IPC also organized or co-sponsored the following constitution workshops or roundtable discussions:

- B.1. Consultation on the Role of Women in Jesuit Institutions, July 25, 1998.
- B.2. Women and Migration, September 23, 1998.
- B.3. Roundtable Discussion on the Report For Children Who Toil, December 9, 1998.

C. Status of existing and new projects

C.1. The Professional Social Science Program, a joint activity of the IPC and the Department of Sociology and Anthropology is presently training the 13th batch of grantees (composed of four Indonesian, two Vietnamese, two Chinese, and five Filipinos). The recruitment of foreign students for Batch 14 is already ongoing in Indonesia and Vietnam. Most of the students are presently undertaking their field research. The rest are still in the process of preparing their proposal for defense.

- C.2. The Ford Foundation funded project Documentation, Policy Research, and Training Assistance for Watershed Management and Community Forestry consists of the following components: 1) documentation of successful cases of community-based watershed management; 2) a critical review of the policies impinging on watershed management and community forests; 3) the determination of groundwater resource values; and 4) the development and implementation of a course in environmental economics for non-governmental organizations. While the training course has been conducted, the other components are still ongoing and nearing completion. The data gaps in the water pricing study are being addressed to determine the start and extent of groundwater depletion and the role of the large commercial consumers who draw water without any permit. The draft report will be presented in Cagayan de Oro for comments in February 1998. The documentation of best community management practices is presently being written and will be presented in a seminar early next year, together with the report on local government participation in community-based forest management. Various issues are being addressed in the study on watershed-related policies. A draft report will be available for comments in February 1999.
- C.3. IPC's Community Health Program was contracted by the Department of Health Community Health Service to assist in its plan to establish a primary health care resource center. Specifically, its task is to carry out an inventory and come up with a profile of the institutions and individuals engaged in the implementation, training, research and/or advocacy of primary health care, and gather available publications and materials for the center. At present field research has covered 24 out of the 37 assigned provinces in Luzon.
- C.4. Last March 1998, the Department of Health and the Philippine Center for Population and Development also contracted the Community Health Program to document and evaluate the pilot implementation of its life cycle approach to health service delivery. Launched in December 1997 in the municipality of Bataraza, Palawan, the life cycle approach (LCA) project seeks to make available health services to the community, particularly women during the health-critical points of their reproductive lives. Process documentation of this LCA pilot project will be done by the end of June 1999.
- C.5. The most recent IPC field research study is the project Strengthening Household-Based Farm Systems Development Planning through Business Planning and Net Worth Tracking, commissioned by the Department of Agrarian Reform-Support to asset Reform through Comprehensive Agrarian Reform and the Development of Indigenous Communities (DAR-SARDIC). Piloted in two Davao del Sur barangays, the project seeks to achieve the following objectives: 1) develop a record keeping system for agrarian reform beneficiaries to use in business planning and tracking of household assets and liabilities; 2) train cooperators on the system and its use in business planning; and 3) inform the cooperative about the benefits of the system and encourage its members to adopt it for business planning purposes.

7. Interdisciplinary Research Group (for the University Research Center), Silliman University

For the academic year 1998-1999, the functions of the Silliman University Research Center has been decentralized to various research units of the university. Since social science researches are primarily conducted in the College of Arts and Sciences, these activities are officially reported as the social research projects of the institution. The Intersdisciplianry Research Group (IRG), formed in 1996, practically serves as the seat of the social science research activities on campus. There are some units in the university, however, which also integrate social science concerns in their research projects.

The IRG researchers are willing to do research work from the perspective of two or more academic disciplines. Other than acknowledging the need to look at social science issues from a multidimensional view, the IRG believes that a team effort makes possible a mentoring system in research and provides a productive mix of junior and senior researchers. Senior researchers may profit from the idealism and trials of budding researchers while junior researchers may benefit from the wisdom and frustrations of experienced research professionals. On the whole, the IRG envisions that the ensuing dynamics of persons and ideas will result in a wealth of empirical knowledge for theory formulation and practical application.

A. Capability Building

- A.1. Training of two additional faculty members in the conduct of social surveys for the Governance and Local Democracy (GOLD) Project.
- A.2. Training of IRG staff, faculty and graduate students in computer/information technology (e.g., access to electronic materials, use of statistical packages, data presentations).

As to the administrative improvements, the NTRC upgraded its computer system by subscribing to the INTERNET. It also sent its staff to various local and international trainings. A special training on computer programs (MS Word and Excel) was conducted for the Executive Staff to strengthen their information technology skills in preparation for the challenges of the new millennium.

Finally, it continued to provide technical assistance to other public and private institutions and individuals who sought the NTRC's expertise in the form of estimates, comments on proposals, draft bills and others. In particular, it administered a seminar on Philippine taxation (NTRC Officials and staff as resource persons) for the students of Rizal Technological College.

On the administrative side, the NTRC would pursue the continuing training of its rank and file employees those holding technical positions to enhance/improve their development/technical skills.

Prof. Anonuevo was with a team of top government officials from the Department of Agrarian Reform and Agriculture which visited China in October 1998 to observe its agrarian reform and rural development. Prof. Baviera headed a similar visit organized by PDRC in August 1998. Made by a delegation composed of nine members who were from various NGOs in different parts of the Philippines, the visit focused on systems and technologies for agricultural productivity.

Both of them talked on their observations on China's rural development and what the Philippines can learn from it. A long and lively open forum followed their talks.

10. Philippine Business for Social Progress

Amidst the Asian financial crisis, PBSP was able to rise to the challenge by being creative in the pursuit of its mission. Limited resources were used optimally to address the concerns of the marginalized groups in its priority areas affected by either or both the El Niño and the economic meltdown.

For fiscal year 1997-98, PBSP assisted over 35,000 poor families through the implementation of 179 projects worth P116.86 million, with 30 partner NGOs in 12 priority provinces. Through its special programs, Small and Medium Enterprise Credit (SMEC) and Governance and Local Democracy, PBSP worked with various communities and sectors in 78 provinces nationwide. The SMEC came up with 10,700 new jobs outside Metro Manila, bringing about a cumulative total of 53,450 jobs generated since the program started in 1990.

A. Achievements/Area Resource Management

A.1. Assistance Provision

A.1.1. In Bohol, Negros Occidental and North Cotabato, some 12,700 farmers increased their incomes because of the provision of production, post-harvest and marketing assistance. Rice-producing cooperatives, PBSP's implementing partners, were trained in project management.

- A.1.2. In Negros, former tenant farmers were taught to practice crop diversification, improve productivity and undertake community-based enterprise projects.
- A.1.3. In Bohol, 25 small water impounding systems were provided, irrigating 386 hectares of rain-fed rice land, doubling yields to 80 cavans per hectare. As a result, 800 farmers earned higher incomes.
- A.1.4. In North Cotabato, farmers were provided with assistance to rehabilitate their cooperatives' agri-based enterprises.
- A.1.5. In Davao del Sur, farmers assisted had reforested 70 hectares of upland areas and converted farmlands into agroforestry farms.
- A.1.6. In Maqueda Bay, Western Samar, six cooperatives and two people's organizations were assisted in their fisheries resource management programs. Five marine protected areas and 144 agroforestry farms were established, 14 hectares of coastal areas were replanted with mangroves, and 140 hectares of upland areas were reforested with fruit trees. The Maqueda Bay was seeded with giant clams, abalones and groupers, and transplanted with coral buds to speed up the recovery of coral reefs. Dissemination of sea ranching and sea farming technologies such as mussel production, seaweed farming and fish cage culture is a continuing concern.
- A.1.7. In Ragay Gulf, 24 fisherfolk organizations and 5 Fisheries and Marine Resource Councils were assisted to raise their own capital. The amount of over half a million pesos is now funding the community's livelihood and resource regeneration projects.
- A.1.8. In Pampanga, 708 houses were turned over to Mt. Pinatubo-affected families, now living in Buensuceso and Villa Arenas resettlement sites. These communities were provided with potable water systems, road networks, training and livelihood centers, and parks and playgrounds. Sustainable livelihood programs such as the Makinang Pangkabuhayan (Sewing Machines for Livelihood), credit for small enterprises, social credit and cooperatives rice trading were implemented now the source of livelihood of many of the resettled families.
- A.1.9. At the National Capital Region, PBSP's involvement with four communities were completed, with recipient families now owning their lots. Roads, drainage systems, and water systems were provided for 450 families. In Taguig, a multi-purpose center and computer laboratory were built.
- A.1.10. For workforce development in Laguna, a job matching program in partnership with the Management Association of the Philippines, Makati Business Club, four industrial estates, the Laguna Employment and Manpower Development Council and the Department of Labor and Employment Councils is currently being implemented. There is on-going work with technical vocational institutions to explore the viability of co-implementing programs in the province to improve the skills of Laguna's workforce.

A.2. Towards Environmental Protection

In terms of environmental protection, PBSP is part of a multi-sector coalition in Cebu and the Cagayan-Iligan Corridor to develop a management plan to protect the watersheds.

- A.2.1. In Samal, Cebu and Mt. San Cristobal, 80 hectares of upland areas were reforested. This brought a total of 455 hectares of reforested upland areas in Cebu City, which started in 1990 in partnership with the Cebu City Government.
- A.2.2. In Barangay Aundanao, Samal Island, a 2-hectare marine sanctuary, now being managed by the local community, was established.

A.3. Support Programs

The following programs, specially developed to support the ARM, have likewise showed significant results:

- A.3.1. Technology Management Program. PBSP's technology management program continues to bring about positive gains. At the Center for Rural Technology Development in Calauan, the model agricultural farms continue to earn profitably. Testing of various high value crop technologies is continually being done to help farmers further optimize the use of their land and increase incomes. In Samar, testing and validation of marine technologies such as sea farming and cage culture for abalone, lobster, prawn and grouper are expanding to include other marine species.
- A.3.2. Upland Marketing Program. The effort to promote and assist in marketing the products of indigenous peoples (IPS) is also gaining ground. Products and commodities of IPs are now available in shelves of supermarkets.
- A.3.3. Indigenous Peoples Program. 64 tribal organizations were organized that represent 45 ethnolinguistic groups into a coalition that advocates the promotion of indigenous people's rights. The coalition today has a seat in the Board of the National Commission of Indigenous Peoples.
- A.3.4. Training, Consultancy and Development Finance (TCDF). The TCDF is mandated to help generate revenues for PBSP through social development services offered to corporate, NGOs and government sectors.

B. Ongoing Programs

B.1. Training and Consulting

Four international training courses in partnership with two U.S.-based prestigious organizations were conducted. PBSP also hosted two international conferences which served as venues for social development practitioners to share their experiences with their foreign counterparts in the country, and both inside and outside the region. In partnership with the Myer Foundation, a study tour of various Australian business and non-profit leaders to look at the model in corporate-community partnership was organized.

- B.2. With funding from the Asian Development Bank, PBSP developed the curricula, monitoring and evaluation systems for the government's non-formal education program. A trainers training for NGOs and personnel of the Department of Education was conducted.
- B.3. Small and Medium Enterprise Credit (SMEC)

The German Ministry has evaluated the SMEC-KfW (German Development Bank) program as among their most successful projects, with the intent of replicating SMEC in other developing countries. For the year, the program loaned out a total of P286 million to continue support to small and medium scale enterprises.

B.4. Governance and Local Democracy

PBSP continued to assist in the government's decentralization agenda by providing the venue for the leagues of cities and provinces to learn more innovative governance practices from each other, and track legislation to preserve the gains they have made. With the Philippine Human Development for the Rural Areas (PHILDRA) as implementing partner, people's organizations in 11 GOLD demonstration sites were assisted to improve their capacity to participate in, and interact more effectively with local government units.

B.5. Together with the Asian Disaster Preparedness Center in Bangkok, a program to help cities draw up plans for disaster mitigation was started.

All these accomplishments were achieved through the strong support of PBSP's 175 member-companies with the commitment to make a difference in the lives of fellow Filipinos.

11. (Philippine-China Development Resource Center

The PDRC is a development-oriented NGO established in 1990 to promote mutual understanding and cooperation between the Philippines and China. It is engaged in organizing exchange visits among Chinese and Philippine development organizations. It also conducts research studies, organizes forums and conferences and publishes books and a journal on issues relating to China and Philippine-China relations. PDRC also conducts regular training programs in acupuncture and traditional Chinese medicine. It maintains an up-to-date databank of books, journals and periodicals on Chinese studies and affairs.

A. Acupuncture and Development Exchange

A.1. In the year 1998, PDRC sent two study missions to China and received two delegations in return. The first delegation to China, from May 18-29, focused on traditional and holistic medicine. The second, from August 17-28, focused on systems and technologies for agricultural productivity. On the other hand, the Chinese delegations which were received included one of rural health administrators and another group looking into poverty alleviation efforts of Philippine government and NGOs. Their visits took place in May and November, respectively.

A.2. A trainor's training course in acupuncture was held in two stages, from 9-13 February and 7-8 May. Apart from this, the annual Basic Acupuncture course was conducted from June 22 to 26 with 22 participants, while the Advanced Acupuncture course was held from June 29-July 3 with 44 participants. Guest lecturers were Dr. Gu Yuehua, Associate Director of the Nanjing International Acupuncture Center, and Dr. Shi Yanhua, Director of the Acupuncture Teaching Society of Traditional and Western Medicine.

B. Research and Conferences

- B.1. In January, PDRC completed work on the project Institutional Barriers to Philippine Trade with China by Eric Baltazar, which was submitted and accepted by the Foreign Service Institute. The study was undertaken through the partial financial support of former Congressman Bonifacio Gillego.
- B.2. On July 18, PDRC co-organized with the Philippine Association for Chinese Studies a luncheon-roundtable with Philippine Consul General Luis T. Cruz, who is based in Guangzhou. Discussions were held about the climate for business cooperation between the Philippines and China, especially since the Asian financial crisis hit East and Southeast Asia in mid-1997.
- B.3. On July 27, Prof. Tao Wenzhao, Deputy Director of the Institute of American Studies, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, was invited by PDRC to speak on Sino-American relations. He gave updates and an analysis of the Clinton visit. The forum was held at the University of the Philippines and was co-organized by the Asia Pacific Studies Program of UP-CIDS.
- B.4. On August 6, as part of a consultation with NGOs regarding future exchange programs of PDRC, a short discussion on Civil Society was held with Isagani Serrano, President of the Philippine Rural Reconstruction Movement, as main speaker. PDRC Executive Director Aileen Baviera also gave a brief presentation on the concepts and practice of civil society and the role of NGOs in China.
- B.5. Together with the Philippine Association for Chinese Studies and the Philippine Social Science Council, PDRC held a forum on Chinese agricultural modernization and its implications for the Philippines. The meeting, held December 9, was in essence a joint debriefing of the agricultural study mission to China organized by the PDRC, and a similar governmental mission headed by Secretary of Agriculture William Dar and Secretary of Agrarian Reform Horacio Morales. Representing the government mission at the forum was DAR Assistant Secretary Carlito Añonuevo. Aileen Baviera made the presentation in behalf of the PDRC delegation.
- B.6. Aside from spearheading the convening of fora, PDRC was also invited to participate in local as well as international conferences on subjects relating to Chinese studies, Asia Pacific affairs and other areas related to PDRC work. These included a conference on Integration into the Global Economy: Experiences and Lessons of Developing Countries held in Beijing in August. Amity Foundation co-organized the meeting with the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences. Ms. Baviera presented a paper on the Asian Financial Crisis: Implications for Regional Security.

- B. 7. In September, Ms. Baviera presented a paper at a conference on Chinese Negotiating Style held in Honolulu. The conference focused on past experiences of China in border and territorial disputes, which is of great relevance to the Philippines in the light of the Spratlys dispute with China. It was organized by the Atlantic Council of the United States and the Asia Pacific Center for Security Studies.
- B.8. In October 29-30, PDRC participated in a meeting organized by Xiamen University on Ocean Economy and Sustainable Governance in the APEC Region. The co-organizer was the Southeast Asia Programme on Ocean Law and Management or SEAPOL, a Bangkok-based institution engaged in research and advocacy work in oceans management. Ocean affairs is one prospective area for developing cooperation between the Philippines and China, in the light of the need for conflict management with regard to maritime resource disputes.
- B.9. In November the conference on Inter-Cultural Relations and Cultural Transformation of the Ethnic Chinese organized by the International Society for the Study of Chinese Overseas was held in Manila. The ISSCO Vice-President for Southeast Asia happens to be Mrs. Teresita Ang See, a member of the PDRC board.
- B.10. As part of its research networking, PDRC played host to visiting scholars from China. These were Prof. Jiang Xiding of Xiamen University and a delegation from the Guangdong Academy of Social Sciences composed of Shen Hongfang, Quiu Shan and Wang Jinlun. Jurgen Haacke of the London School of Economics also came to the Center.

C. Publications and databank

One of the major plans implemented during the period was the re-packaging of the PDRC journal China Currents from a magazine to a newsletter. The plan was approved during the visioning workshop and strategic planning made by the PDRC Staff and Board in April. The main goal is to broaden its audience reach to include more non-academic readers, specifically from the Philippine non-government organizations with whom PDRC plans to strengthen its partnership. The contents will become less academic and more reflective of current development issues faced by civil society in China and the Philippines.

C.1. China Currents

- a. Vol. 7, Nos. 2-3, April-September 1996. State-owned Enterprises in China.
- b. Vol. 8, No. 3, July-September 1997, Doing Business with China.
- c. Vol. 8, No. 4, October to December 1997, Philippine/ASEAN-China Relations.

C.2. Books

- a. Theresa Cariño, ed. China-ASEAN Relations, Regional Security and Cooperation
- b. Theories in Advanced Acupuncture

C.3. Databank

The direction of the databank during the period was to expand its holdings, in quantity and in its focus. New books, mostly on civil society, development concerns and development theories, as well as Asia Pacific affairs, were purchased. Subscriptions to new publications were also made.

PDRC applied with the University of the Philippines Institute of Library Science for the acquisition of the FAO-developed library program, the CDS-ISIS. The aim is to make the databank systems more user-friendly and efficient, and to expand the capacity to store more materials. The application was approved but the software is still to be installed this January pending notice from the authorized distributor.

This report was prepared for the Philippine Social Science Council. There is therefore less elaboration of activities which may be of less concern to PSSC or its members. These include the Traditional Chinese Medicine Program, the Biogas training activities and development exchange visits, as well as organized and financial affairs of the PDRC.

12. Philippine Psychology Research and Training House

A. Research activities

A.1. Joint PPRTH-ELF Longitudinal Study of the Impact of the Leadership Formation and Empowerment Programs of the Education for Life Foundation (ELF) - Year 3

This is the third year of the study which seeks to answer two (2) basic questions, i.e., 1) What is the impact of ELF's courses on its leader-graduates? And 2) What is the impact of ELF's leader-graduates on their respective communities? To answer these two basic questions, a longitudinal study is being conducted on a number of grassroots leaders who are of two types, the ELF-trained and non-ELF trained leaders wherein impact of these leaders in their communities will be obtained by qualitatively comparing baseline data with end-of-three-years' data. Data gathering methods that are being used are the ginabayang talakayan, pagtatanong-tanong, pakikipagkuwentuhan, pagmamasid, psychological assessment, survey and interview. The survey instruments used in the previous impact evaluation study were adapted such that two parallel forms of the earlier instruments were developed. These forms were used at the start, and will again be used at the end of the evaluation period, with pre-and post-training data thus to be compared. Additional instruments were also developed, e.g., tests of project management skills, scales to measure gender awareness and gender roles as practiced, environmental awareness, etc. with pre-and-post-training test administration data targeted for comparison.

During the first year of the study, three main activities were conducted: 1) development of evaluation instruments, 2) gathering of baseline data by the first batch of leader-graduates trained as field researchers, and 3) training of leader-graduates as researchers for the study. Last year a second group of leader graduates underwent training on field research methods.

With the instruments that were developed, baseline information regarding the ELF-trained leaders selected for the longitudinal study were obtained, this year the third and final year of the study, information of these will again be obtained and then compared with the baseline data gathered in 1996. The results of the comparative data that will be done will then be presented at the end of 1998, the final year of the study.

Research and Development Center, Saint Paul University

Like all other institutions of higher learning, St. Paul University is charged with the responsibility of performing the three-fold functions of Instruction, Research and Community Extension. Research is a priority concern to support important decisions for better planning and delivery of services in SPU. Research data are urgently needed to support important decisions and undertake corresponding implementation mechanisms which require certain logistics.

The Research Council is organized as the highest policy making body on research activities. The Council has the following functions:

- to provide directions for the research activities of the University;
- to establish priorities in accordance with the overall research framework and the requirements of the University as well as the needs of the society;
- to identify and coordinate personnel, financial and technical resources among departments and colleges in the University.
- to submit a plan for research priorities at the start of each school year.; and
- to establish linkages with other educational institutions and other agencies to promote the research thrusts of the University.

The Research Coordinators, as members of the Research Council, provide the Council with the research-related inputs from their respective colleges and departments. The implementing arm of the Council is the Research and Development Center which is headed by a Director. She acts as the chair of the Council. The commonalities of research needs and requirements of the different departments/colleges are to be used by the Council to come up with the wholistic integrated research program of the University.

15. School of Economics,
University of Asia and the Pacific

The school year 1997-1998 was another busy year for the School. It was a year marked by stabilization and consolidation. It was the second year after the massive reorganization of the School. In the beginning of the school year, the School transferred its offices to the new academic building in the campus.

A. Academics

A series of symposia was organized by the School on various pressing national economic issues. In October, Dr. Emmanuel Velasco, Chairman of the Tariff Commission spoke on recent developments on the matter. In the same month, Dr. Luis Rubio, Director General of the Center for Research and Development, Mexico analyzed the 1995 Mexican Currency Crisis. He explained some of the possible lessons to be learned from their experience for Southeast Asian economies.

Dr. Onofre D. Corpuz came over in November and discussed the Economics of Special Relations Between the Philippines and the United States: 1909-1935.

A symposium on the Philippine Constitution was organized by the School in March graced among others by Atty. Ricardo J. Romulo, Chairman of the Makati Business Club who spoke on the Supreme Court and the Economy and Dr. Cayetano Paderanga of the Monetary Board who spoke on Economics and the Constitution.

About four other symposia with School faculty members as paper presentors were held throughout the school year. Mr. Carandang discussed the issue of tax on light commercial vehicles while Mr. Vic Abola analyzed the recent developments on the comprehensive tax reform program. Dr. George Manzano shared his insights on the preparations for the APEC Conference in Vancouver in a symposium in October. Dr. Terosa reported his findings on the impact of the softdrinks industry on the regional economies while Mr. Gilbert Garchitorena reviewed the recent developments in the capital markets in a symposium in November.

A highlight in school activities was the grand alumni homecoming of the Applied Business Economics Program (ABEP), one of the two masteral programs of the School. The homecoming was one of the activities lined up to mark its 20th year as a graduate program of the School. Achievement awards were given and a yearbook was published. The masteral program caters to middle level managers in the government, private sector and NGO.

Spearheaded by the ABEP Staff, the School threw its doors open for the first time to review classes for the Certified Financial Analyst Exams, an internationally accredited examinations for financial analysts. The review classes drew some 15 enrollees from various affiliations.

The School faculty was boosted with the return from study leave abroad of Gloria Pasadilla. She came back with a Ph.D. in Economics from New York University.

The faculty came in full force to attend the Annual Conference of the Philippine Economic Society held at Shangrila EDSA last February with no less than President Fidel V. Ramos capping the proceedings. At the end of the conference, Dr. Emil Antonio, Jr., the School's Assistant Dean, turned over the leadership of the Philippine Economic Society to Dr. Cayetano Paderanga, another alumnus of the oldest graduate program of the School, the Industrial Economics Program. Dr. Paderanga is the third alumnus and the fifth from the School to take over the helm of the Philippine Economic Society (Dr. Bernardo Villegas, the current Dean and Dr. Jesus Estanislao, the founder and first President of the University served as president of the organization at some point in the past).

Also in February, the faculty, at the initiative of the Academic Director Dr. George Manzano, started the Brown Bag Sessions. The objective is for faculty members to share with the rest of their colleagues the ideas in the papers they have written, or to toss some ideas that they are thinking of incorporating in their papers that are in progress. Further to simply share ideas they picked from the conferences, seminars, workshops or meetings they attended or from books and journals they have read. A faculty member is designated to present at every session. The first presentor was Dr. Jesus Estanislao. He talked about the financial crisis in Asia and the research areas and possibilities on the subject. The sessions are held over lunch with baon in brown bags.

B. Extension activities

The School conducted a series of seminars, briefings and conferences.

In the second semester, the School began with an extension activity for the benefit of the staff of research organizations, corporate planning units and non-governmental organizations with a seminar on How the Economy Works. It was held from November 13-14, 1998 at the Dizon Auditorium.

In addition, another activity, the How to Forecast Seminar was held in 4 months: June 25-27, 1997; Oct. 6-8, 1997; Jan. 28-30, 1998; and March 3-4, 1998. Here the School's econometricians shared their expertise on forecasting demands among other things.

The Seminar on Economic Inputs to Wage Setting organized for the benefit of human resources management practitioners was held on August 19-20, 1997 and another one on April 13-14, 1998.

Finally, the School had the traditional quarterly macroeconomic briefing, the mid-year and the yearend briefing on the economy. These briefings tried to give participants from the government, business, NGO and the academe the School's reading of the macroeconomy, the economies of the regions and key industries for the respective periods under consideration as well as the prospects for the next 18 months. Similar briefings were given to specific audiences such as corporate executive officers (CEO), corporate finance officers (CFO), and members of the diplomatic corps. The latter was organized in partnership with the University's Public and International Affairs Office.

The Mid Year Briefing was held last July 31, 1997 with particular focus on the information technology and telecommunication industries. An outside speaker, Mr. Deogracias Vistan, President of the Bankers Association of the Philippines spoke on the Peso Depreciation from a Banker's Point of View.

The Yearend Briefing was held on December 8-10, 1997 with focus on the tourism industry. Mr. Vicente Valdepeña, Chief Operating Officer of Union Bank of the Philippines and former Assistant Director for Planning of NEDA spoke on Non Deliverable Forwards and the Currency Crisis.

C. Administrative Matters

The latter half of the school year saw the stabilization of the finances of the School with the setting up of a system for the collection of receivables with the required personnel.

In the early part of the school year, university management decided to retain the management and supervision of the field office in Cebu, the UA&P South, with the School of Economics.

The School conducted its annual strategic planning and budgeting exercises with the entire staff in attendance towards the end of January. The exercise actually started on board the WGA Superferry and completed at the Pryce Hotel in Cagayan de Oro City.

It will be noted that there are two masters' degrees being offered: one is the regular program and the other is the SPRING-ASIA. This program is offered jointly by the University of the Philippines and the University of Dortmund, Federal Republic of Germany. Students spend the first year in Germany and the second year in the Philippines. SPRING is an acronym for Spatial Planning for Regions in Growing Economies. A similar program – SPRING (Africa) is being carried out jointly by the University of Dortmund and the African University of Science and Technology in Ghana.

It will also be noted that the Diploma Program is now being offered in the various autonomous units of the University. This is because the Diploma in Urban and Regional Planning, along with another program in the University, has been declared as a system-wide program. The School continues to administer its programs even if these are offered in the autonomous universities in the region.

Graduates: The School graduated a total of 43 students in 1998: ten (10) in the Diploma program, thirty-one (31) in the masters' programs, and only two (2) in the Ph.D.

Social Research Center, University of Santo Tomas

The activities of the Social Research Center for the year 1998 span a number of areas of concern – research, organizational and human resource development, publications, linkages. These activities were undertaken in pursuit of the Center's objectives formulated in the previous year's planning conference to: support planning and policy-making in the University, contribute to a deeper understanding of societal issues particularly in the areas of education, religion, family, and to stimulate interest and encourage participation in research among faculty members and students.

A. Organization and staff development

Increasing the number of its faculty researchers was a major concern of the Center. A campaign to recruit more faculty researchers was, therefore, initiated. By the end of 1998, the pool of faculty researchers grew to ten as against five in 1997.

Some minor changes in the organizational structure of the Center was undertaken. Prof. Armando de Jesus who has been acting director was named full-fledged director in February. The position of Assistant to the Director was abolished but three consultancy positions were created. Dr. Noemi Catalan of the UST Graduate School and Dr. Sylvia Guerrero of the UP Center for Women Studies were appointed as consultants.

Three of the Center's staff earned graduate degrees. Five more are presently enrolled in the graduate program: three in the doctoral and two in the masteral levels. Aside from their regular graduate coursework, attendance by the SRC researchers in conferences and congresses of professional organizations such as the PSSC, UGAT, NAST, WAPOR, CHED, PSS, were required as part of their professional development activities.

B. Research

Eight studies were completed in 1998. Four of these were institutional studies undertaken in aid of University policy-making and planning, namely:

- B.1. HASIK in Layak: An Evaluation of the UST Community Service Program by Profs. Armando de Jesus, Crescencio Doma, Clarence Batan

C. Publication and Research Dissemination

The SRC co-published Promoting Justice, Love, Life authored by Fr. Fausto Gomez, O.P., former director of the Center. Hanapbuhay, authored by SRC's Dr. Jeanette Loanzon was published by the UST Publishing House. The SRC Research Update (formerly SRC Newsletter) resumed publication in October.

To disseminate the results of the Center's various studies, four research colloquia were held in November on the occasion of the University Research Week celebration.

D. Research conferences and seminars

In pursuit of the Center's mandate to stimulate interest and encourage participation in research among faculty members and students, the SRC organized a number of research-oriented conferences and seminars for the faculty and students.

- D.1. A symposium on Participatory Action Research was held in March with Prof. Auralyn Anorico of the Institute of Social Order of the Ateneo de Manila University and Dr. Sylvia Guerrero of the UP Center for Women Studies as speakers and participated in by the social science faculty members, research management groups and community service coordinators of the different colleges, and faculty researchers.
- D.2. A five-day seminar-workshop on Qualitative Research was conducted by Dr. Keith Punch of the University of Western Australia. The seminar drew participants from the faculty members of the various colleges of the UST as well as from schools belonging to the DOMNET (Dominican Network).

D.3. A lecture on Doing Social Survey was given by Ms. Linda Luz Guerrero, Executive Vice President of the Social Weather Stations and a forum for faculty members was held in November with Dr. Mina Ramirez, President of the Asian Social Institute, discussing the subject, The Teacher as Researcher: Integrating Research in Instruction.

E. Linkages

Because establishing linkages is an important strategy for revitalizing the Center, ways of strengthening collaborative activities with other colleges and offices of the University were sought. The Center thus:

- co-sponsored a conference with the Graduate School;
- co-sponsored a conference with the Faculty of Arts and Letters;
- undertook two mini-surveys with the Political Science Department of the Graduate School, a student survey for the Registrar Office;
- undertook a survey for the DOMNET;
- implemented an evaluation research for the OSACS;
- established a tie-up with the Sociology Department of the Faculty of Arts and Letters to address the practicum requirements of the sociology majors;
- held a joint research poster exhibit with the IDC. A multi-disciplinary interest group on qualitative research was organized among the faculty members with monthly informal kapihan to discuss research issues and to provide mutual support on their research needs.
- Aside from building up on internal linkages, linkages with external agencies were also sought:
 - 1. PSSC
 - 2. the PSS
 - 3. UGAT
 - 4. Society for the Scientific Study of Religion, Association for Socio-Religious Research
 - 5. Interagency Committee on Drug Abuse Prevention
 - 6. the OCSE (Coalition for the Services of the Elderly)
 - 7. CBCP-NASSA, the Bishop-Businessmens' Conference for Human Development (BBC)
 - the University Research Consortium (URC), the Program for Cultural Cooperation between the Ministry of Education and Culture of Spain and Philippine Universities
 - 9. the International Federation of Catholic Universities (IFCU).

F. Community Extension Services

Two action researchers were initiated by the Center, one in Talim Island in Laguna, and another in Barangay Garreta, in Palauig, Zambales. The aim of these action researches is to engage specific sectors of the community (the youth, in the case of Talim; the women, in the case of Garreta) in setting up self-help projects in the areas of non-formal education and primary health care.

The Center has also extended services in the form of research consultancy, lecturers, and staff support to a number of agencies:

- 1.
- the Coalition for the Services of the Elderly (COSE) the Interagency Committee on Drug Abuse Prevention and Education (IAC-DAPE), the National Centennial Commission,-Women's Sector 2.
- the Alliance Biblical Seminary 3.
- St. Paul Seminary. 4.

C. SWS Networking

C.1. International Social Survey Programme (ISSP)

The 1998 Module on Religion was implemented within the 4th Quarter National Survey of SWS.

ISSP in Manila: Filipinos greeted the world's pollsters when SWS hosted the 1998 Annual Meeting of the International Social Survey Programme (ISSP) from January 25-28, 1998. A total of 37 delegates came from Australia, Austria, Bangladesh, Bulgaria, Chile, Czech Republic, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Latvia, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Russia, Slovenia, Spain, USA, and from the Central Archive (University of Cologne) which assembles the ISSP survey data. Attendance to this year's ISSP Meeting was quite good, with the only absences being Canada, Cyprus, Poland and Slovakia.

One of the highlights of the Meeting was the courtesy call on President Ramos by the delegates.
